Brake Failure Is Hinted in Crash of Flyer

Child Killed, 219 Hurt As Luxury Train Rolls Down Embankment

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Investigators are looking into the possibility that the air brakes of a Northern Pacific luxury train failed on a mountain curve Sunday, sending 15 cars plunging down a 100-foot embankment.

A child was killed and 219 of the train's 350 passengers were injured. Sixty-eight of the passengers were held overnight in Missoula hospitals for further treatment and observation. The others were treated and released. The train was en route from Seattle to Chicago and many aboard were returning home from the World's Fair.

Reports from passengers and train personnel suggested the train was exceeding the 35 mile-an-hour speed limit on the steep curve, 15 miles northwest of here.

The train's speed recorder tape will be given to Interstate Commerce Commission investigators, either at Missoula or Washington, D.C., a Northern Pacific official said at St. Paul, Minn. He wouldn't divulge what the recorder showed, except to say the speed was a "good deal slower" than 100 m.p.h.

Only two of the 17 cars remained on the rails in the dawn derailment, which may cost the railroad $1 million.

The other 15 cars of the Seattle-to-Chicago North Coast Limited catapulted down a 100-foot embankment 15 miles northwest of Missoula.

Two of the olive-green passenger cars plunged all the way to the bottom, coming to rest in a ditch along U.S. Highway 93 and 16A.

The nose of one car smashed deep into the ditch, scooping up mud that buried Teresa Ann Dooms of Ekalaka, Mont. Teresa, who would have been 3 June 30, was the first North Coast Limited passenger to be killed in 62 years.

The derailment came a little more than three months after the same train, westbound, ran off the tracks and into a lake near Athol, Idaho. Two crewmen were killed in that wreck. Its cause is still a mystery.

Most of the passengers were sleeping or just awakening at 4:40 a.m. as the train crashed a mile short of a trestle that spans a 300-foot canyon.

Greeks Told U.S. Wheat Is Cheaper

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Premier Constantine Caramanlis is trying to get Greek farmers to grow less wheat because it is cheaper to obtain American surplus stocks under U.S. aid programs.

Caramanlis urged Greece's 250,000 farmers in a speech Sunday to cut down "harmful and wasteful" wheat production which is disadvantageous to the consumer.

He said Greece's wheat production, high enough to meet all requirements, made it impossible to receive U.S. surplus commodity aid.

American surpluses, he said, would not only secure cheap bread, but also provide considerable gains to the national budget.

Caramanlis said his government will continue to protect wheat producers by guaranteeing them a price of 2,700 drachma—$90—a ton.

Pacific Test Zone Enlarged For High Altitude Atom Shot

HONOLULU (AP) — Extension of the United States high altitude danger area around Johnston Island was seen today as a preliminary to the firing of the biggest nuclear blast of the Pacific test series.

There was no official comment from Joint Task Force 8 on the precise altitude and size of the detonation but unofficial sources said it will be from 50 to 500 times as powerful as the bomb that destroyed Hiroshima.

There have been reports it will be of several megatons in force.

Miss McKenzie was personally answering a fan letter Jimmy had written about six months ago. He has been an ardent fan of hers for 11 years.

THE CIRCLEVILLE Pumpkin Show will be without the services of one of its faithful fans and helpers this year.

James J. Creedon, 88, legendary veteran of the Columbus Police Department who worked many shows here as a special officer to guard against pickpockets, died Sunday at the home of a daughter in Canal Winchester.

Mr. Creedon, with the Columbus force for 30 years, was known across the nation for his ability to spot pickpockets.

He made his last appearance at the Pumpkin Show about three years ago, according to local police.

Funeral services are scheduled 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Mary Roman Catholic Church, Groveport.

Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery south of Columbus. Friends may call at the O'Shaughnessy Funeral Home, Columbus.

Mr. Creedon, with the Columbus force for 30 years, was known across the nation for his ability to spot pickpockets.

A megaton blast is the equivalent of the explosion of a million tons of TNT.

The big blast will be set off about 200 miles high, the sources said. It will be the highest and biggest nuclear shot in U.S. history and will be seen in Hawaii, 750 miles northeast of Johnston.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department announced Saturday that the nuclear danger area surrounding Johnston Island will be extended 60 miles by Tuesday to a radius of 530 nautical miles at sea level. It will be increased 290 nautical miles at 30,000 feet, to a radius of 990 miles.

The zone will be extended 10,000 feet in altitude to a height of 40,000 feet, where the radius will be 1,050 miles. At 30,000 feet the zone will cover the entire Hawaiian Island chain.

The zone is being extended to mark the "eye burn" area in which there could be a hazard from looking directly at the blast through binoculars, periscopes or other optical instruments. The spokesman said it could lead to permanent eye damage or possible blindness.

He said there will be no hazard to Hawaii residents who view the fireball with the naked eye from surface levels.

The extension announcement indicated the shot will not come before Thursday, in the hours of darkness, because of the four-day warning that is given air lines.

A Joint Task Force 8 spokesman indicated a possible firing during next weekend.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rep. Charles V. Vanik, D.-Ohio predicts the House will pass the Kennedy administration's bill for medical care for the aged through Social Security.

"It is needed because there are so many old people living on Social Security today who can't pay for the increased costs of medical care," the congressman said on KYW-TV's "Open Circuit" Sunday.

Vanik said he was for the medical care bill and also the trade expansion measure.

Vanik described President Kennedy's intervention in the recent steel price rise situation as justified. He said he thought the President did not assume greater powers but "responded to the obligations of his office and acted 'where others failed to act.'"

He said it is mythical to contend that government is big and getting worse or to argue that deficits in the federal budget always create inflation.

He responded by implication to charges by Republicans, including former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and some spokesmen for business that his policies touched off recent stock market gyrations.

Among false issues which he said are frustrating efforts to push the economy forward, Kennedy declared "is the assertion that any and all unfavorable turns of the speculative wheel—however temporary and however plainly speculative in character—are the result of 'lack of confidence in the national administration.'"

"This, I must tell you, while comforting, is not wholly true. Worse, it obscures the reality—which is also simple. The solid ground of mutual confidence is the necessary partnership of government with all the sectors of our society in the steady quest for economic progress," Kennedy said.

"What really matters, Kennedy said, is the capacity of the nation as a whole to deal with problems and opportunities alike.

"It is not new that past debates should obscure present realities," Kennedy said. "But the damage of such false dialogue is greater today than ever before, simply because today the safety of all the world—the very future of freedom

Terrorists Strike Sahara Oil Fields

ALGIERS (AP) — Secret Army Organization commandos struck in a Sahara oil field Sunday in their scorched earth warfare but a Moslem nationalist leader said the terrorist fire power is fading.

Terrorist saboteurs blasted a well being drilled in the Sahara, about 60 miles south of the big Hassi Messaoud oil field, and set off a spectacular gas fire.

French officials expressed fears that the secret army, whose hard core now is believed to be largely French army deserters, would attempt to blow up dams, railroads and oil installations in their campaign to leave the country in ruins for the future Moslem rulers.

Chawki Mostefai, a spokesman for the Moslem National Liberation Front (FLN), told newsmen Algeria's Europeans were turning against the secret army fanatics.

"It would not be rash to foresee a halt in the present events," he said.

Premier Youssef Ben Khedda of the Algerian provisional government was reported preparing a "solemn declaration" directed at the million European settlers on their role in the new Algeria.

"We believe that this declaration will satisfy everyone," said Mostefai. He declined to go into details.

The European settlers were the backbone of the secret army in an attempt to block Algerian independence but there have been increasing signs they now realize the fight is hopeless.

They still hold bargaining power, however, because a mass exodus of skilled Europeans would cripple the economy of the independent nation.

New explosions and fires raged in Algeria Sunday but crowds poured out to the beaches as usual.

Secret army bomb and arson commandos destroyed three more schools, an agricultural cooperative, a tax office and an Algerian hydraulics center. Thousands of records were burned.

Gunmen staged four holdups, including the municipal gambling casino in the capital's biggest hotel.

U.S. Congress Facing Full Week's Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate and House plunge into a full week of business this week for the first time this year.

A little bit of something for almost everybody but the taxpayers is on an unusually heavy docket.

Two appropriation bills top a group of four big bills in the Senate. They call for an outlay of $48 billion to finance the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting next month and $932 million for the Interior Department. Both have passed the House.

Once they are out of the way, the Senate plans to take up bills dealing with all-channel television and a space communications satellite system. They, too, have passed the House.

The House starts its week with a bill to take care of women workers. It would provide that women should receive the same pay as men if they do the same work.

Tuesday the House will take up the controversial Fryingpan-Arkansas reclamation project.

That will be followed on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday by bills to increase the statutory national debt limit to $308 billion and to write a controversial new farm program.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former call house madam Polly Adler, who wrote "A House Is Not a Home" about her experiences, died of cancer Saturday.

Miss Adler, 62, freely admitted in her 1953 book that she spent 25 years running a house of prostitution in New York City.

Miss Adler said she wrote her autobiography because she was left without money by police crackdowns and income tax suits. It sold 100,000 copies.

In the book she told of frequent police raids and of paying thousands in bribes plus entertaining authorities to avoid being put out of business.

She was arrested in 1935 and pleaded guilty to a charge of conducting a disorderly house. She was fined $500 and served 24 days of a 30-day sentence.

The European settlers were the backbone of the secret army in an attempt to block Algerian independence but there have been increasing signs they now realize the fight is hopeless.

They still hold bargaining power, however, because a mass exodus of skilled Europeans would cripple the economy of the independent nation.

New explosions and fires raged in Algiers Sunday but crowds poured out to the beaches as usual.

Secret army bomb and arson commandos destroyed three more schools, an agricultural cooperative, a tax office and an Algiers hydraulics center. Thousands of records were burned.

Gunmen staged four holdups, including the municipal gambling casino in the capital's biggest hotel.

U.S. Congress Facing Full Week's Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate and House plunge into a full week of business this week for the first time this year.

A little bit of something for almost everybody but the taxpayers is on an unusually heavy docket.

Two appropriation bills top a group of four big bills in the Senate. They call for an outlay of $48 billion to finance the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting next month and $932 million for the Interior Department. Both have passed the House.

Once they are out of the way, the Senate plans to take up bills dealing with all-channel television and a space communications satellite system. They, too, have passed the House.

The House starts its week with a bill to take care of women workers. It would provide that women should receive the same pay as men if they do the same work.

Tuesday the House will take up the controversial Fryingpan-Arkansas reclamation project.

That will be followed on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday by bills to increase the statutory national debt limit to $308 billion and to write a controversial new farm program.

Here Is Timetable For Echo over Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Echo I satellite is scheduled to make six visible passes over Ohio during the coming week. The schedule:

June 12 — 4:16 a. m., south 41 degrees above the horizon, moving northeast; June 13 — 3:25 a. m., south, 24 degrees, NE; June 15 — 3:53 a. m., south, 55 degrees, NE; June 16 — 3:03 a. m., south, 38 degrees, NE; June 17 — 4:20 a. m., north, 89 degrees, NE; June 18 — 3:31 a. m., south, 73 degrees, NE.

Rival Princes Set Up Neutral Government

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP)—The rival Laotian princes agreed today on the Cabinet for a coalition government aimed at ending the civil war and adding Laos to the ranks of the world's neutral nations.

Neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, the premier-designate, announced the agreement, climaxing negotiations instituted by the 14-nation conference on Laos at Geneva 13 months ago.

Premier Prince Boun Oum of the present royal Laotian government is stepping out of government affairs, happily, he said. However, the strong man of his regime, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, will sit in as deputy premier and minister of finance under Souvanna.

Another deputy premiership and the economy portfolio will go to Prince Souphanouvong, chief of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao and half brother of the premier-designate.

Though domestic problems still abound, the three princes and their aides emerged happily from a meeting that wound up conferences begun in this rebel stronghold last week.

Immediately after the announcement, the three princes signed the Cabinet list. Souvanna, however, said the three will meet again Tuesday to sign a formal agreement on formation of the coalition.

Souvanna said he hopes to take his ministers to Luang Prabang, the royal capital, by next Monday to present them to King Savang Vathana.

The question of who would get the armed forces and police ministries had been one of the toughest points blocking an agreement. The royalist government had expressed fear that turning these posts over to the Communists would mean seizure of power through a takeover of the ministries.

Under today's agreement, Souvanna will be premier, defense minister and veterans and social affairs minister.

The Interior Ministry (police) went to one of Souvanna's close associates, Pheng Phongsavan, who will also be social welfare minister.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strong man of the Vientiane royalist regime, and Souphanouvong will be deputy premiers. In addition, Phoumi will be finance minister, and Souphanouvong will hold the economy and planning portfolio.

The coalition Cabinet comprises seven representatives from Souvanna's neutralists, four from the royalist group in Vientiane, four from the pro-Communist Pathet Lao and four from the so-called Vientiane neutralist group.

Famous Call House Madam Dies at 62

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former call house madam Polly Adler, who wrote "A House Is Not a Home" about her experiences, died of cancer Saturday.

Miss Adler, 62, freely admitted in her 1963 book that she spent 25 years running a house of prostitution in New York City.

Miss Adler said she wrote her autobiography because she was left without money by police crackdowns and income tax suits. It sold 100,000 copies.

In the book she told of frequent police raids and of paying thousands in bribes plus entertaining authorities to avoid being put out of business.

She was arrested in 1935 and pleaded guilty to a charge of conducting a disorderly house. She was fined $500 and served 24 days of a 30-day sentence.

A native of Yonov, Russia, she was born Pearl Adler. She became a naturalized citizen in 1929.

When friends offered to help write her book, she turned them down with: "Too many cooks spoil the brothel."

Franco Rounds Up Hundreds of Foes

MADRID (AP) — Hundreds of opponents of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's dictatorship have been reported arrested in a sweeping roundup of dissidents of all political shades.

Five leading monarchists were caught in the dragnet as they returned from a meeting of Spanish oppositionists in Munich, Germany. Three of them refused an offer of exile and were flown today to forced residence in the Canary Islands. Two went into exile in Paris.

Those flown to Fuerteventura, second largest of the Canaries, were Joaquin de Sotrustegui, an executive of the Spanish affiliate of the American-owned Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.; Fernando Alvarez de Miranda, 40, nephew of the Marquis of Valdivia and a Madrid city employee, and Jaime Miralles, member of a prominent old family.

Families of the three men said they were not allowed to visit

No Change Planned In Canadian Dollar

OTTAWA (AP) — Finance Minister Donald M. Fleming said Sunday night Canada will not consider any change from the present Canadian dollar exchange rate of 92½ cents to the U.S. dollar.

Fleming said in a statement. "We are determined to maintain the 92½-cent rate against pressures of any sort."

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton was quoted by newsmen, Friday as saying that he supports a further devaluation of the dollar exchange rate to 90 cents. He said the 92½-cent rate, established May 3, was in effect a compromise among Cabinet members and asserted the 90-cent level is "a natural peg which is defensible with our negative trade balance."

Wounded Officer's Condition Critical

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — One of three policemen wounded in a gun battle Saturday remains in critical condition today.

Patrolman Donald Brown, 32, the most seriously injured, was struck in the face by a shotgun blast fired by 52-year-old Oliver Nickerson.

Nickerson, wounded when police returned fire, was reported in fair condition at Mercy Hospital. He was held under police guard charged with shooting with intent to kill.

Patrolmen William Boyle, 31, in fair condition at St. Vincent's, and Frank Hays, 39, in good condition, also were wounded in the shooting.

Atlanta's Catholic Pupils To Integrate

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church has ordered Atlanta archdiocesan schools desegregated this fall in a move supported by leading Catholic laymen and the mayor of Atlanta.

The historic decision applied to Catholic schools in the 11 north Georgia counties of the archdiocese where about 7,500 pupils are enrolled. The total includes 735 negroes, all in Atlanta.

Archbishop Paul J. Hallinan said it was up to local bishops province to decide what action to take in their areas. That included north and south Georgia and Florida, all under the archbishop's titular control.

She's Not Suffering, But Merely Straining

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The frantic female voice pleaded with the desk sergeant: "My pet parakeet is suffering so. Couldn't you please send a policeman over to end its misery?"

The amused voice of the cruiserman an hour or so later reported in: "The bird was just trying to lay an egg. Parakeet and egg are doing fine."

them or speak to them after they were arrested during the week-end. Under a new decree they can be kept in forced residence for two years.

The monarchist leaders who chose exile were Jose Maria Gil Robles and Jesus Prados Arrarte, a noted economist and professor at Madrid University.

Political observers said the opposition groups gave Franco the excuse he needed for a crackdown by holding the Munich meeting, which they labeled "ill-planned and ill-timed."

"By associating themselves with the left-wingers at Munich, the more moderate dissidents from the Franco regime, such as the monarchists, have permitted themselves to be tarred with the same brush as the Communists," said one expert.

Arriba, organ of Franco's Falange party, branded the Munich conference as "a reconciliation of traitors."

Official sources said many of those arrested were involved in the wave of coal field and industrial strikes that recently gripped northern Spain. They were arrested after the government issued a decree restricting the movement of Spaniards in the country.

Another monarchist, Jose Ma. Gil Robles, flew to Paris after being given a choice of exile or forced residence in Spanish territory. Jesus Prados Arrarte, noted economist and Madrid University professor who was given the same choice as Gil Robles, arrived in Paris Sunday.

Wanted Toledoan Held in Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Stanfey R. Patterson, wanted in connection with an alleged $30,000 embezzlement in Toledo, Ohio, has been arrested in Stuart, Fla., the FBI said today.

Patterson, 40, former manager of a Kroger Co. grocery store in Toledo, fled Ohio Feb. 24 to avoid prosecution, agent-in-charge Wesley Grapp said.

The FBI said Patterson purchased a 25-foot yacht in Virginia after leaving Ohio and sailed to Florida.

In Stuart, 90 miles north of Miami, agents said Patterson bought an automobile and a house with proceeds from the alleged embezzlement.

Patterson was arrested Saturday. The U. S. marshal was to take custody of Patterson and turn him over to Ohio State authorities.

Preacher Insists On Retiring Again

DECATUR, Ga. (AP)—"I don't want to stay around here," the minister told his board of stewards, "until you fellows look at me askance and say, 'Why doesn't that old rascal move on?'"

The Rev. Walter Scott Robinson then retired from active ministry the second time in his 91 years.

He retired the first time in 1942 when he reached the mandatory retirement age of 72. He soon returned to the pulpit as a supply pastor as more and more young ministers were called to the war. He served Decatur's First Methodist church as associate pastor until his recent second retirement. He began his ministerial career as a circuit rider 64 years ago.

Business, Political Critics Urged by JFK To Shed Old Slogans, Help Buoy U.S. Economy

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—President Kennedy urged today that critics, business and political, discard "wornout slogans" and join hands with the government to pump new strength and confidence into the nation's economy.

Kennedy vowed his clash with the steel industry did not mean his administration is hostile to ward business. But in a speech prepared for Yale University's commencement, he said the government is obliged to exercise "watchful concern for our economic health" while business and labor must live up to their public responsibilities.

Kennedy said economic problems bearing down on a free economy cannot be solved without separating myth from reality—and he said it is mythical to contend that government is big and getting worse or to argue that deficits in the federal budget always create inflation. He responded by implication to charges by Republicans, including former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and some spokesmen for business that his policies touched off recent stock market gyrations. Among false issues which he said are frustrating efforts to push the economy forward, Kennedy declared "is the assertion that any and all unfavorable turns of the speculative wheel—however temporary and however plainly speculative in character—are the result of 'lack of confidence in the national administration.'"

"This, I must tell you, while economic confidence in the nation's ability to invest, produce and consume. Business had confidence in Republican administrations of 1929, 1954, 1958 and 1960, he said, "but this was not enough to prevent recession when business lacked full confidence in the economy."

What really matters, Kennedy said, is the capacity of the nation as a whole to deal with problems and opportunities alike. "It is not new that past debates should obscure present realities," Kennedy said. "But the damage of such false dialogue is greater today than ever before, simply because today the safety of all the world—the very future of freedom

—depends as never before upon the sensible and clear-headed management of the domestic affairs of the United States."

Of the size and shape of government, he said the myth is that it is "big and bad—and steadily getting bigger and worse." Government spending has increased, regardless of the party in power, he said, but government has not grown as fast as the economy. Kennedy said all sides must abandon "traditional labels and wornout slogans of an earlier era" to "keep our mighty economic machine moving steadily ahead."

Western Europe's progress in the last decade illustrates how government can coordinate all sectors of an economy to generate prosperity, he said.

Garage Blaze on Heavy Slate Of Weekend Calls for CFD

A garage blaze which caused damage estimated at $1,500 was one of five calls answered by Circleville Fire Department units during the weekend.

The garage fire, reported at 4 a. m. yesterday was at the home of Mrs. Mary Clark on Route 56 southeast of here. Mrs. Clark was taken to Berger Hospital for treatment of burns on the hands.

Chief Talmer Wise said the blaze apparently was caused by a chicken heater. He said approximately 75 chickens were killed in the fire.

Wise said the garage was demolished. The adjoining house was slightly damaged.

According to the chief, flames were prevented from reaching a nearby 250-gallon fuel tank.

Mrs. Clark's hands were burned while she was removing a car and a lawn mower from the burning garage.

In other activity early Sunday, firemen were called to the nearby Presbyterian Church where a trash barrel was burning. No loss was reported.

Another close to home call came at 2:15 p. m. Sunday when firemen checked burning rubbish at the rear of the National guard armory, next to the fire station.

The fourth Sunday summons was at 4:45 p. m. when Rex Ingman, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, suffered facial injuries while playing at the park. He was taken to Berger Hospital by private car before firemen reached the scene.

At 8 p. m. Saturday, the unit's emergency ambulance transported Lyman England, Jr., 230 Logan St. to the hospital after he suffered an arm injury while wrestling.

Stock Market Sluggish Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved moderately lower early this afternoon in sluggish trading.

Reflecting the decline, The Associated Press average at noon was off .90 at 220.90, with industrials down 1.30, rails off .40 and utilities off .60.

A good many stocks were unchanged and many showed small losses but some declines of pivotal issues went to more than a point. Here and there a stock rose from a fraction to around a point.

The market was two weeks away from "Blue Monday," May 28, when the list took its sharpest dive since 1929.

Most market commentators still saw stocks in a period of consolidation which could last a considerable time before a decisive movement is made one way or another.

Eight Treated At Hospital

Eight persons were treated and released at the Emergency room of Berger Hospital during the weekend.

Jeffrey A. Smith, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger S. Smith, Route 1, Stoutsville, cut his left index finger with a pocket knife.

Lyman England, 16, of 230 Logan St., received a dislocated left elbow while wrestling.

Charles A. Stevens, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stevens, 148 Cottage Hill, fell on cement steps. He suffered a laceration over the right eyebrow.

John McRoberts, 5, of 355 Lewis Road, fell against the sharp edge of a bookcase and cut his scalp.

Ruby Glenn, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Glenn, Route 1, struck the left side of her head on a washing machine. She suffered a laceration.

Judy Forrest, 12, Route 1, McArthur, caught her left arm on a tractor, causing a fracture to her forearm.

Connie Sue Sowers, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sowers, Route 4, suffered a laceration when a lawn mower threw a stone against her leg.

Senator Needles Ike's Opposition to Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, has taken a swipe at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for opposing President Kennedy's program of medical care for the aged.

Young said the former president has been cared for by government doctors all his adult life.

"The facts are," Young contends, "since he was 18 years of age, to this hour, in the course of his entire career, he (Eisenhower) has always been a beneficiary of 'socialized medicine.'"

Foreign affairs will go to one of Souvanna's aides, Quinim Pholsena, who headed the neutralist delegation to the Geneva conference on Laos.

The Information Ministry will be given to a Pannet Lao official, Pannum Vongvichit, who also headed his party's delegation to Geneva.

The announcement on agreement on a Cabinet came as a surprise. After a morning meeting, an air of strong pessimism prevailed.

During the luncheon recess, Souvanna emerged from the conference room and in a loud voice said of the talks: "there may be a rupture."

"My valises are ready and if we don't reach agreement by June 15—this date still stands," he said, indicating he would make good his warning to depart for France.

The agreement is one the West hopes may take Laos out of the cold war into neutrality.

Backed by the West and the Communist bloc, Souvanna had a strong hand to wield in the negotiations.

Marshal Ho Lung of Red China said Sunday night that Peiping favored a coalition regime in Laos. But he charged the sending of American troops to Thailand had raised a new threat in Southeast Asia.

School Pupils Safe on Buses In Circleville

The daily responsibility of providing safe transportation for Circleville school children amounts to a man-sized job.

Circleville bus drivers covered 41,330 miles and transported 631 pupils daily without a serious accident this year, according to George Hartman, superintendent of city schools.

"It is reassuring to know that when a student boards a Circleville school bus every possible provision for his safety has been made by competent drivers," Hartman said.

IN OTHER statistical figures,

Hartman said reports for the year in the Circleville public school system showed attendance was exceptionally good. The aggregate days of attendance totaled 472,538 and the total days of absence were 23,753.

This is a 93 per cent attendance record.

The senior class was composed of 60 girls and 52 boys. A total of 34 of the graduates plan to attend college. There are three graduates who finished in the top 25 per cent of the class who desire to go to college but are unable to do so.

The total enrollment of the high school was 668 this year. There were 1,926 pupils enrolled in the grade schools and 241 in kindergarten.

Area Man Sentenced

Francis A. Chilcote, Laureville, who pleaded guilty on two counts of issuing checks with no bank account, was sentenced Saturday to the Ohio Penitentiary.

Judge William Ammer leveled a term of one to three years. Chilcote will serve the sentences concurrently.

City Police arrested Charles W. Brown, 31, 305 W. Mount St. for making an excessive amount of noise while operating a motor vehicle. He was fined $10 and costs.

Charles Hamilton, 26, of 545 E. Union St. was fined $30 and costs for reckless operation. He was arrested by the sheriff's department.

Garage Blaze on Heavy Slate Of Weekend Calls for CFD

A garage blaze which caused damage estimated at $1,500 was one of five calls answered by Circleville Fire Department units during the weekend.

The garage fire, reported at 4 a. m. yesterday was at the home of Mrs. Mary Clary on Route 56 southeast of here. Mrs. Clary was taken to Berger Hospital for treatment of burns on the hands.

Chief Talmer Wise said the blaze apparently was caused by a chicken heater. He said approximately 75 chickens were killed in the fire.

Wise said the garage was demolished. The adjoining house was slightly damaged.

ACCORDING to the chief, flames were prevented from reaching a nearby 250-gallon fuel tank.

Mrs. Clary's hands were burned while she was removing a car and a lawn mower from the burning garage.

In other activity early Sunday, firemen were called to the nearby Presbyterian Church where a trash barrel was burning. No loss was reported.

Another close to home call came at 2:15 p. m. Sunday when firemen checked burning rubbish at the rear of the National guard Armory, next to the fire station.

The fourth Sunday summons was at 4:45 p. m. when Rex Ingman, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, suffered facial injuries while playing at the park. He was taken to Berger Hospital by private car before firemen reached the scene.

At 8 p. m. Saturday, the unit's emergency ambulance transported Lyman England, Jr., 230 Logan St. to the hospital after he suffered an arm injury while wrestling.

Stock Market Sluggish Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved moderately lower early this afternoon in sluggish trading.

Reflecting the decline, The Associated Press average at noon was off .90 at 220.90, with industrials down 1.30, rails off .40 and utilities off .60.

A good many stocks were unchanged and many showed small losses but some declines of pivotal issues went to more than a point. Here and there a stock rose from a fraction to around a point.

The market was two weeks away from "Blue Monday," May 28, when the list took its sharpest dive since 1929.

Most market commentators still saw stocks in a period of consolidation which could last a considerable time before a decisive movement is made one way or another.

Eight Treated At Hospital

Eight persons were treated and released at the Emergency room of Berger Hospital during the weekend.

Jeffrey A. Smith, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger S. Smith, Route 1, Stoutsville, cut his left index finger with a pocket knife.

Lyman England, 16, of 230 Logan St., received a dislocated left elbow while wrestling.

Charles A. Stevens, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stevens, 148 Cottage Hill, he fell on cement steps. He suffered a laceration over the right eyebrow.

John McRoberts, 5, of 355 Lewis Road, fell against the sharp edge of a bookcase and cut his scalp.

Ruby Glenn, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Glenn, Route 1, struck the left side of her head on a washing machine. She suffered a laceration.

Judy Forrest, 12, Route 1, McArthur, caught her left arm on a tractor, causing a fracture to her forearm.

Connie Sue Sowers, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sowers, route 4, suffered a laceration when a lawn mower threw a stone against her leg.

Senator Needles Ike's Opposition to Medicare
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, has taken a swipe at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for opposing President Kennedy's program of medical care for the aged.

Young said the former president has been cared for by government doctors all his adult life.

"The facts are," Young contends, "since he was 18 years of age, to this hour, in the course of his entire career, he (Eisenhower) has always been a beneficiary of 'socialized medicine.'"

Foreign affairs will go to one of Souvanna's aides, Quinim Pholsena, who headed the neutralist delegation to the Geneva conference on Laos.

The Information Ministry will be given to a Pannet Lao official, Poomi Vongvichit, who also headed his party's delegation to Geneva.

The announcement on agreement on a Cabinet came as a surprise. After a morning meeting, an air of strong pessimism prevailed.

During the luncheon recess, Souvanna emerged from the conference room and in a loud voice said of the talks: "there may be a rupture."

"My valises are ready and if we don't reach agreement by June 15—this date still stands," he said, indicating he would make good his warning to depart for France.

The agreement is one the West hopes may take Laos out of the cold war into neutrality.

Backed by the West and the Communist bloc, Souvanna had a strong hand to wield in the negotiations.

Marshal Ho Lung of Red China said Sunday night that Peiping favored a coalition regime in Laos. But he charged the sending of American troops to Thailand had raised a new threat in Southeast Asia.

School Pupils Safe on Buses In Circleville

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two men from Boston — William Stanley Braithwaite and Edward J. O'Brien — are now both dead. A lot of people still alive owe them a great debt.

It is a debt which hardly ever gets acknowledged by more than a reference in a footnote in literary history. Neither was a creative artist. They published anthologies of other people's writings.

This is an attempt, if only for one day and in a personal way, to do better than a footnote for Braithwaite who died over the weekend at 83 and O'Brien, who died in 1941 at 51.

Every year from 1919 to 1929 Braithwaite, a Negro largely self-educated, published a fat book called "Anthology of Magazine Verse." Every year from 1915 to 1940 O'Brien published what he called the best short stories of the year.

Two things made these books remarkable: the time and the attitude of the two men.

The time, from about 1912 to about 1929 was the most exciting literary period in 20th century America. It was a time of literary revolution, protest, experimentation, new form, new views.

This writer grew up on the West Side of New York where Irish, German and Italian immigrants had settled, raised sons and daughters as first-generation Americans, and, many of them, still remained to see their grandchildren growing up.

This was not an intellectual environment. These people never had much time for schooling. They had to go to work young and they worked long hours. You would not sit around a living room in that neighborhood and hear about the new breath of life whistling through American literature.

But you could learn about it if you went to the neighborhood library. I didn't hear it from the librarian. They seemed too busy marking cards to read much. And I did not find new authors spread out on the shelves.

But I was lucky. I found the anthologies of O'Brien and Braithwaite.

O'Brien always seemed to include in his anthologies a certain percentage of the usual, old-fashioned formula short story from the popular and conservative magazines. I sometimes felt he thought he had to do it to get his books into the libraries at all.

But in between he sandwiched the new writing, by men like Sherwood Anderson and Ernest Hemingway, and experimental writing, some of which wasn't good. These he reprinted from magazines I had never heard of although they were great forces in the new literature—the Little Review, the Dial, the Double Dealer, Midland, Broom.

That branch library did not carry them. But once I learned of them from O'Brien's book, I could go to New York's main library, find them, and sit there and read them on Sunday nights. And there I would discover even more writers than O'Brien put into his books.

The same thing with Braithwaite. He was a traditionalist in poetry himself, but, like O'Brien, along with the sunset and flowers stuff, he carried the work of the imagists like Hilda Doolittle in England who were championed by Ezra Pound, which was long before he got into trouble; the work of Amy Lowell, Edgar, Lee Masters, Carl Sandburg, and the work of Robert Frost who for long had been ignored in his own country.

Braithwaite, too, carried the names of poetry magazines I had never heard of but which I could also find in the main library.

All this would not mean much if it were just the experience of one young man in the early 1920s. I never thought about it much at the time, I guess. I was just happy to have found these books and get help from them.

Later, as I grew older, I realized my experience must have been shared by many thousands of young people all over America, particularly in areas where there was no one to guide them in their reading by handing them the latest in literature at a time when they were restless and seeking new insights into writing and the world they lived in.

To us, Braithwaite and O'Brien made a great contribution and I have always felt indebted to both of them.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook.

Scattered thunderstorms gave variable amounts of rainfall to Ohio Sunday afternoon, with Columbus receiving .36 of an inch, Toledo .39, Cleveland .32 and Cincinnati .25.

Temperatures Sunday afternoon ranged from 82 at Chesapeake and Toledo to 87 at Columbus and Cleveland.

Cloudiness was general over the state this morning, and temperatures were mostly in the 60s, ranging from 65 at Toledo to 69 at Columbus and 70 at Bellaire.

Afternoon thundershowers are expected again today and early tonight, and the showers may linger into Tuesday morning.

Lower afternoon temperatures are expected Tuesday.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO

Temperatures will average near or slightly below normal. Normal high 80-85, normal low 59-63. Turning cooler beginning of period, warming trend toward end of week. Rainfall will average one-half to three-fourths of an inch in scattered thundershowers beginning of period and again toward end of week.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average near to a little below normal. Normal high 79-80, normal low 57-61. Cooler Tuesday, little change until warming toward end of week. Rainfall will average about one-half inch in a few showers Tuesday and scattered thundershowers Thursday or Friday.

table," says General Stone. "He may be called upon to serve anywhere in the world, the Air Force of today is so scattered. He must know the languages, customs, mores of people, must have made a study of the enemy as well as our allies."

The Air Force Academy does not make its cadets walk punishment tours anymore, either. Instead, when they're guilty of some misdemeanor, the instructors look around for some subject the boy is weak in. Then they assign him to take extra hours in that subject.

Sixty per cent of the 2,200 members of the Air Academy's Wing this year are taking courses over and beyond what would seem to many U. S. college students an impossible load. Upon graduation, the cadet receives a bachelor of science degree, his navigator's wings — the Air Academy does not teach flying — and a second lieutenant's commission in the regular Air Force.

The Air Academy's scholastic requirements are very high. They require 185 credits to graduate. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for example, requires only 145. Most colleges demand only 125 credits.

"We're out to develop the individual, an all-around man," says General Stone. "One who can handle himself in this world and eventually in space."

Our Military Seeks Officer Manpower

By JAMES H. WINCHESTER
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WEST POINT, N. Y. — Our military services — all branches — are facing a serious manpower shortage on the officer level today. Those in the commissioned ranks are dropping out of the Army and Navy after graduating from West Point or Annapolis at a rate ranging from eight to 24 per cent. This is costing U. S. taxpayers many, many millions annually.

To try and stop — or at least curb — this drop-out rate among service academy trained officers, the House of Representatives has passed a bill requiring a graduate of any of the three military service academies to remain in active service for a minimum of five years after graduation. The bill is now before the U. S. Senate. The requirement is now four years' service after graduation.

It costs taxpayers $40,000 to $50,000 to educate each academy graduate. Too many are taking this expensive free education from Uncle Sam, then going back on their assertions — when accepted as cadets — that they wanted and would follow a military career.

For example, there were 633 graduates in West Point's 1954 class. Already, more than one-quarter of them have resigned and returned to civilian life.

Using the lower figure of $40,000 as the cost to educate each of these drop-outs, the financial loss to the country from this one year's class alone is $6,320,000. Even more serious than this financial loss, though, is the loss of trained leadership in troubled times.

Out in Colorado Springs, home of the U. S. Air Force Academy, steps have been taken to make service academy life more attractive — and, at the same time, turn out better trained men. It's a revolutionary new program in military school training.

Largely responsible for this new look is Maj. Gen. William Stone, superintendent of the Air Force Academy. As a result, life for the cadets is not nearly as austere as it used to be. The rules on smoking, for instance, have been liberalized. Freshmen no longer have to dance alone, but are permitted to enjoy the company of females while learning to dance.

Another major step taken at the Air Force Academy eliminates the traditional sophomore routines in which upper classmen and instructors "haze" or otherwise bedevil lower classmen. The results are amazing. In the first year this approach was followed, there was only one cadet resignation, compared to 80 the previous year. "Morale is up at least 80 per cent," says General Stone.

There are other new approaches, too. The Air Force's curriculum is divided evenly between the sciences and the humanities. West Point's ratio is 60-40 in favor of the sciences. Navy's is 70-30.

WASHINGTON — Your next vacation guide is as close as your nearest mailbox, and the cost is very low. As a matter of fact, it could turn out to be one of your most enlightening and useful bargains in a lifetime of wondering where to go, what to see and what to do.

The source of all this bargain vacation material is Uncle Sam's "bookstore," the U. S. Government Printing Office, with only one simple address, Washington 25, D. C.

Right now, for instance, the Government Printing Office is issuing a free list of vacation suggestions in form of various government reports, pamphlets, booklets and maps.

Among the 81 publications described on the list of the GPO are a 40-cent "Recreational Boating Guide" and two large detail maps, at 20 cents each, showing the entire national park system and listing the recreational facilities available in each national park area, such as campgrounds, cabins, meals, picnic areas, swimming, horseback riding and guided tours.

For those who can't read maps, the same list offers, for 15 cents, a complete alphabetical guide to camping accommodations in the entire national park system, showing the name and address of the area with details on the sort of recreational information all campers and highway travelers seek.

Planning a trip to Hawaii? For 30 cents, Uncle Sam will send you an illustrated booklet "packed with information" about "those questions which are most frequently asked about Hawaii."

Planning a road trip to Alaska? For what was once the price of a good cigar, a nickel, you can get "Travel in Alaska," the most reliable and most comprehensive guide to sources of information

Play It Cool

TORONTO (AP) — The Ontario Swimming Pool Association warns you can get soaked on a pool as well as in it.

The group, which describes itself as a "sort of Better Business Bureau of our own," says fly-by-night pool builders are operating in the province.

John Finch, a director of OSPA, says, "You may think you've saved a lot of money, but after a while the cracks start and you find you've been taken in. Then its too late — the contractor you dealt with has moved on."

OSPA says this year a good pool costs from $2,000 up.

that would help you make such a rugged journey memorable and safe.

Planning an overseas junket to Europe or Asia? You might be interested in one of the many "pocket guides" available on various nations and areas of the world.

These "pocket guides," ranging from 25 to 40 cents each, were written primarily to tell American GIs about the people, customs and interesting facts regarding the countries where they may be stationed.

Not only are the guides illustrated, but they contain language glossaries of the most commonly used words and phrases in the different countries.

Actually, the amount of useful vacation and travel information available from the GPO goes far beyond the 81 publications described on the current free list.

Today, it takes more than 500 printing office employees to dish out some 50 million publications to the tune of more than $6 million a year.

There are literally hundreds, if not thousands of publications which can serve the personal, professional or business interests of vacationers and travelers.

Not shown in the free vacation planning list, for example, is the highly regarded two-volume basic course in French, originally developed for State Department personnel but now available to the public at a cost of only $4.

Those interested in health tips for travel abroad can obtain a series of five-cent pamphlets giving authoritative health tips for travel in various parts of the world.

In your letter to the printing office, request information about a specific place or subject. If there is anything on the office bookshelves that may be of use to you, they will send you a list of publications, together with a description of each item on the list, prices and order blank.

Then you order by specific title. Within 48 hours after your order is received, chances are the publication of your choice will be on its way in the mails to you.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two men from Boston — William Stanley Braithwaite and Edward J. O'Brien — are now both dead. A lot of people still alive owe them a great debt.

It is a debt which hardly ever gets acknowledged by more than a reference in a footnote in literary history. Neither was a creative artist. They published anthologies of other people's writings.

This is an attempt, if only for one day and in a personal way, to do better than a footnote for Braithwaite who died over the weekend at 83 and O'Brien, who died in 1941 at 51.

Every year from 1919 to 1929 Braithwaite, a Negro largely self-educated, published a fat book called "Anthology of Magazine Verse." Every year from 1915 to 1940 O'Brien published what he called the best short stories of the year.

Two things made these books remarkable: the time and the attitude of the two men.

The time, from about 1912 to about 1929 was the most exciting literary period in 20th century America. It was a time of literary revolution, protest, experimentation, new form, new views.

This writer grew up on the West Side of New York where Irish, German and Italian immigrants had settled, raised sons and daughters as first-generation Americans, and many of them, still remained to see their grandchildren growing up.

This was not an intellectual environment. These people never had much time for schooling. They had to go to work young and they worked long hours. You would not sit around a living room in that neighborhood and hear about the new breath of life whistling through American literature.

But you could learn about it if you went to the neighborhood library. I didn't hear it from the librarian. They seemed too busy marking cards to read much. And I did not find new authors spread out on the shelves.

But I was lucky. I found the anthologies of O'Brien and Braithwaite.

O'Brien always seemed to include in his anthologies a certain percentage of the usual, old-fashioned formula short story from the popular and conservative magazines. I sometimes felt he thought he had to do it to get his books into the libraries at all.

But in between he sandwiched the new writing, by men like Sherwood Anderson and Ernest Hemingway, and experimental writing, some of which wasn't good. These he reprinted from magazines I had never heard of although they were great forces in the new literature—the Little Review, the Dial, the Double Dealer, Midland, Broom.

That branch library did not carry them. But once I learned of them from O'Brien's book, I could go to New York's main library, find them, and sit there

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Scattered thunderstorms gave variable amounts of rainfall to Ohio Sunday afternoon, with Columbus receiving .36 of an inch, Toledo .39, Cleveland .32 and Cincinnati .25.

Temperatures Sunday afternoon ranged from 82 at Chesapeake and Toledo to 87 at Columbus and Cleveland.

Cloudiness was general over the state this morning, and temperatures were mostly in the 60s, ranging from 65 at Toledo to 69 at Columbus and 70 at Bellaire.

Afternoon thundershowers are expected again today and early tonight, and the showers may linger into Tuesday morning.

Lower afternoon temperatures are expected Tuesday.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average near or slightly below normal.

Normal high 80-85, normal low 59-63. Turning cooler beginning of period, warming trend toward end of week. Rainfall will average one-half to three-fourths of an inch in scattered thundershowers beginning of period and again toward end of week.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average near to a little below normal. Normal high 79-80, normal low 57-61. Cooler Tuesday, little change until warming toward end of week. Rainfall will average about one-half inch in a few showers Tuesday and scattered thundershowers Thursday or Friday.

Knecht Graduation Scheduled at U of D

Harold J. Knecht, son of Mr. Clarence J. Knecht, Route 1, Williamsport, will receive a bachelor of electrical engineering degree from the University of Detroit June 14.

Knecht, who resides with his wife, Margaret, in Detroit, recently received the University of Detroit Honor Organizations Council award for having attained a quality point ratio in excess of 3.00, a "B" average.

The Air Force Academy does not make its cadets walk punishment tours anymore, either. Instead, when they're guilty of some misdemeanor, the instructors look around for some subject the boy is weak in. Then they assign him to take extra hours in that subject.

Sixty per cent of the 2,200 members of the Air Academy's Wing this year are taking courses over and beyond what would seem to many U. S. college students an impossible load. Upon graduation, the cadet receives a bachelor of science degree, his navigator's wings — the Air Academy does not teach flying — and a second lieutenant's commission in the regular Air Force.

The Air Academy's scholastic requirements are very high. They require 185 credits to graduate. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for example, requires only 145. Most colleges demand only 125 credits.

"We're out to develop the individual, an all-around man," says General Stone. "One who can handle himself in this world and eventually in space."

Our Military Seeks Officer Manpower

By JAMES H. WINCHESTER
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WEST POINT, N. Y. — Our military services — all branches — are facing a serious manpower shortage on the officer level today. Those in the commissioned ranks are dropping out of the Army and Navy after graduating from West Point or Annapolis at a rate ranging from eight to 24 per cent. This is costing U. S. taxpayers many, many millions annually.

To try and stop — or at least curb — this drop-out rate among service academy trained officers, the House of Representatives has passed a bill requiring a graduate of any of the three military service academies to remain in active service for a minimum of five years after graduation. The bill is now before the U. S. Senate. The requirement is now four years' service after graduation.

It costs taxpayers $40,000 to $50,000 to educate each academy graduate. Too many are taking this expensive free education from Uncle Sam, then going back on their assertions — when accepted as cadets — that they wanted and would follow a military career.

For example, there were 633 graduates in West Point's 1954 class. Already, more than one-quarter of them have resigned and returned to civilian life.

Using the lower figure of $40,000 as the cost to educate each of these drop-outs, the financial loss to the country from this one year's class alone is $6,320,000. Even more serious than this financial loss, though, is the loss of trained leadership in troubled times.

Out in Colorado Springs, home of the U. S. Air Force Academy, steps have been taken to make service academy life more attractive — and, at the same time, turn out better trained men. It's a revolutionary new program in military school training.

Largely responsible for this new look is Maj. Gen. William Stone, superintendent of the Air Force Academy. As a result, life for the cadets is not nearly as austere as it used to be. The rules on smoking, for instance, have been liberalized. Freshmen no longer have to dance alone, but are permitted to enjoy the company of females while learning to dance.

Another major step taken at the Air Force Academy eliminates the traditional soporific routines in which upper classmen and instructors "haze" or otherwise bedevil lower classmen. The results are amazing. In the first year this approach was followed, there was only one cadet resignation, compared to 80 the previous year. "Morale is up at least 800 per cent," says General Stone.

There are other new approaches, too. The Air Force's curriculum is divided evenly between the sciences and the humanities. West Point's ratio is 60-40 in favor of the sciences. Navy's is 70-30.

"We want a man who will not only know his business, but also knows his way around a conference

table," says General Stone. "He may be called upon to serve anywhere in the world, the Air Force of today is so scattered. He must know the languages, customs, mores of people, must have made a study of the enemy as well as our allies."

The Air Force Academy does not make its cadets walk punishment tours anymore, either. Instead, when they're guilty of some misdemeanor, the instructors look around for some subject the boy is weak in. Then they assign him to take extra hours in that subject.

Sixty per cent of the 2,200 members of the Air Academy's Wing this year are taking courses over and beyond what would seem to many U. S. college students an impossible load. Upon graduation, the cadet receives a bachelor of science degree, his navigator's wings — the Air Academy does not teach flying — and a second lieutenant's commission in the regular Air Force.

The Air Academy's scholastic requirements are very high. They require 185 credits to graduate. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for example, requires only 145. Most colleges demand only 125 credits.

"We're out to develop the individual, an all-around man," says General Stone. "One who can handle himself in this world and eventually in space."

A new carriageless electric typewriter can tap out 186 words per minute.

Sweden's first auto-carrying passenger train is now being operated by the Swedish State Railroads between Stockholm and Malmo.

"We want a man who will not only know his business, but also knows his way around a conference

table," says General Stone. "He may be called upon to serve anywhere in the world, the Air Force of today is so scattered. He must know the languages, customs, mores of people, must have made a study of the enemy as well as our allies."

The Air Force Academy does not make its cadets walk punishment tours anymore, either. Instead, when they're guilty of some misdemeanor, the instructors look around for some subject the boy is weak in. Then they assign him to take extra hours in that subject.

The Deck Is Being Stacked

The Indonesian government — which has no claim to it — is avowedly willing to start a miserable little war with the Netherlands, and throw a large part of the world into disorder, for the largely worthless territory of West New Guinea.

The Dutch have asked the UN to send observers to West New Guinea and to ask Indonesia to stop its military raids. But, incredibly, U. Thant says such UN action would be "taking sides".

If this is not asinine enough, consider the U. S.-proposed solution — appointment of a UN commissioner to supervise the territory for a year then; withdrawal of Dutch troops, who would be replaced by Indonesian administrators then a UN plebiscite to see which rule the natives preferred.

Does anyone, except some heavy thinkers in Washington, believe that Indonesians, once in charge of West New Guinea, would permit a vote for anything but continued Indonesian rule? Or that they would peaceably withdraw if by some miracle the Papuans were permitted to vote against them?

But Americans care little about the wrangling over such a remote and unimportant territory. Why bring it up at all? Simply because the deck is being stacked, and the U. S. is helping to stack it. Nothing of importance is involved except a principle, and that makes it the business of mankind.

And there is the matter of precedent. If Indonesia wins its groundless claim to West New Guinea, how could the free world object to her taking the other half of the island, or the Philippine island of Mindanao? What would prevent India claiming Burma, or Russia claiming Iran? Each has as valid a claim as Indonesia has to New Burma, or Russia claiming Iran? Each has as valid a claim as Indonesia has to New Guinea.

Or are the rules different for "neutrals".

Flying Physicians' Assn.

A unique and potentially valuable service in time of major disaster has been made available by the formation of a disaster program of the Flying Physicians Association. Comprised of 2,000 physicians in all areas of the United States, the FPA is now prepared to mobilize immediate emergency medical aid and place it at the scene of a disaster speedily.

There are many organizations prepared to provide immediate aid in time of a natural disaster, and excellent examples of their effectiveness was the work of volunteer organizations during last fall's hurricanes in the South and the more recent Atlantic seaboard storm destruction.

However, one of the most critical needs during a major natural or nuclear calamity is immediate provision of medical assistance until a regular medical facility can be established. Frequently the only paths into areas of destruction are from the air, and this is the approach taken by the FPA.

Each of its physician members is a plane-owning pilot. He is constantly prepared to fly into disaster areas and by landing his small plane on any available field, park or highway, bring medical aid much more quickly than otherwise would be possible.

Planning for an eventuality one hopes never comes is the best possible insurance. The Flying Physicians Association, and Dr. Frank Coble, Richmond, Ind., its chairman, deserve plaudits for the armada of emergency medical skill they have poised in readiness.

Old soldiers can recall a song about the Army that includes the line, "You'll never get rich . . ." It may not be an accurate description of the modern service.

At least stockbrokers think there's a vein of affluence, if not riches, to be tapped to the extent that they want the Army to permit them to open investment - counsel-

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FOR A QUARTER century or more, the late George S. Kaufman was known as "Mr. Theatre" by show folks—the man everybody sought to patch up shows that were in obvious trouble during their pre-Broadway trial runs in New Haven or Boston.

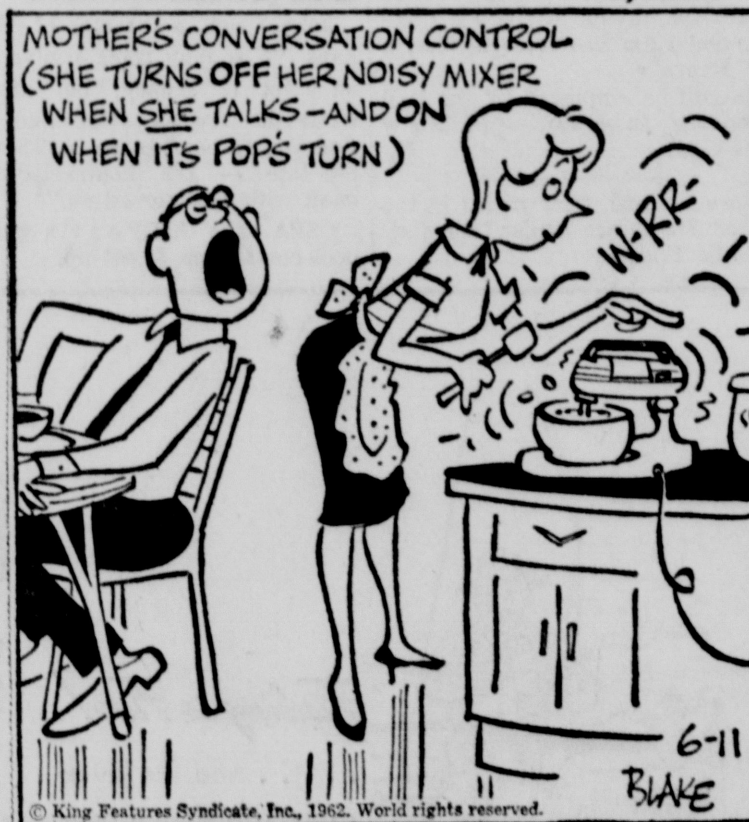

Kaufman was sitting disconsolately in the rear row at a disastrous try-out of his own one evening—a limp musical called "Park Avenue." Producer Nunnally Johnson was keeping him company. "What are you going to do about this?" asked Johnson sympathetically. "There's only one thing we can do," replied Kaufman bitterly. "We'll have to send for George S. Kaufman!"

Joey Bishop, performing at a Las Vegas club, was annoyed by a patron who insisted on getting in on his act. "Would you mind not singing along with me?" chided Bishop. "Do I look like I have a beard?" When the patron had left in a huff—presumably to seek out a more accommodating Mitch Miller—Bishop confided to his audience, "I bet that square lives so far away from town that the mailman has to mail him his mail."

Lord Mayor Briscoe, of Dublin, is reviving a joke which was told here fifty years ago by Finley Peter Dunne. It concerns the Hibernian who told his neighbor, "My daughter's fiancé hasn't much money, but at least he's an Irishman." "Oh, really," nodded the neighbor absent-mindedly. "No," corrected the Hibernian. "O'Reilly."

EVER HAPPEN TO YOU? By Blake

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.
Artistic genius! Eyes that tire before reading one page!

Astigmatism can cause both. Astigmatism refers to a lens or picture window in front of the pupil that bends irregularly — sideways, up and down or at an angle in-between.

Everything looks distorted, stretched out of shape, like a TV screen with an unbalanced picture. Circles become ovals; figures grotesque.

To test for astigmatism, you look at a chart that resembles a clock. A finely-lined minute hand points to each numeral. If some look sharp and others hazy, you have astigmatism. When special lenses clear this haziness, the doctor can tell how much and at which angle.

Test your own glasses! Hold them 18 inches away and move them side to side.

Does a distant image move in the same direction? Then you're nearsighted. In the opposite direction? You're far-sighted. If the image doesn't seem to move, the lens is plain glass.

Now rotate the glass around. Does a distant image stretch and shrink in and out of shape? Then you have astigmatism.

Astigmatism explains the peculiar style of three famous artists. One painted Henry VIII with a broad, massive chest and Christ reclining, long and slender. Here astigmatism stretched horizontal lines.

Vertical astigmatism accounted for another artists' preference for tall, slender, standing figures. A third painter, El Greco, drew uneasy, nervous figures that seemed to be leaning or sliding off the corner of the canvas. His astigmatism ran at an angle.

Genius vanished when these lenses that corrected for astigmatism. You could see only normal figures. Artistic style had blossomed from poor vision!

Still, poor vision won't make your child a genius when near-sighted eyes can't see the blackboard, farsighted can't read print or astigmatism tires both.

Remember, check each eye when you're worried about IQ! Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — You, the consumer, are the biggest factor in the economy. And the government wants to help keep the economy from dawdling—to help, maybe, by from $5 to $9 billion worth.

That's why tax relief for individuals is proposed by President Kennedy.

While the emphasis of his tax cutting plan is laid on spurring hesitant business to raise its spending plans and on counteracting the harm an ailing stock market has done to confidence, the amount that may be pared from individual federal income taxes could prove a top weapon in the fight to increase the rate of economic growth.

That's because you aren't expected to hold onto whatever your income tax cuts, when and if put into effect. You are expected to spend it—in the stores, at the auto dealers, the housing development, or for the countless services that mean more in your life this time. Or, if you're in top income brackets, you're expected to put your tax savings into direct and indirect investment in business ventures.

This recognition of the big role the individual can play and does play, if he has the wherewithal, is an essential part of Kennedy's tax reform proposals, promised later this summer.

Earlier plans, now before Congress or in the works in the Internal Revenue Service, concentrate almost exclusively on incentives for business expansion through revamping depreciation allowances for tax purposes. This is important, especially now that business is hesitant.

But consumer spending can give a big boost, too. The President hasn't spelled out how big a cut in individual income taxes he wants. In any case the cuts won't be a certainty until Congress takes final action.

Because the economy has dawdled there has been a good deal of wishful thinking recently that individual taxes would be cut this year. Also behind such thinking was the realization that tax bills originate in the lower house of Congress, and this is a congressional election year.

This hope for an early windfall for the individual taxpayer seems dashed by the President's statement that he wants the next Congress, not this one, to cut taxes. The cuts would affect income earned after Jan. 1, but wouldn't change the amount deducted from your pay this year, or the amount you'll be liable for next April 1.

Whatever the taxpayers in the lower income brackets may save by such a cut is expected to flow almost automatically into the channels of trade. The individual sums will be small; the total will be large, because the Treasury gets the lion share of its revenues from those in the lower brackets.

In the middle brackets, some of the tax relief could be put into various forms of saving and some into direct investment in business. But a large amount probably would go into goods and services—things wanted now, but just out of reach of disposable income after taxes.

Stillwell Faced Huge Task

By George Sokolsky

In the discussions about Cuba and Indonesia, Laos and elsewhere, it is clear that the State Department, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was President, developed a concept that there were good dictators and bad dictators, honest men and dishonest men and that political judgments were to be based upon such psychological considerations.

This is brought out most clearly in a memorandum dated March 9, 1943, signed by John Davies, Jr., the Second Secretary of the American Embassy in China. Discussing the Stilwell Mission to China, Davies wrote:

"We recognized before December 7, 1941 that China was endeavoring to get us to fight its battle against Japan. There has been no reason for a change in this Chinese attitude and there has in fact been no change, despite the disillusioning shock of Pearl Harbor which struck the Chinese with as great force as it did us."

This was written on March 9, 1943. The Chinese had been fighting the Japanese since 1931. The Japanese had taken Manchuria and the major commercial port of Shanghai. China had stood alone for 10 years until the United States entered the war. Beset by Communist activities, supported by Russia, China had fought valiantly and unconquered.

But Davies wrote: "We have not bled enough for the liking of the Russians, the British or the Chinese. With political considerations looming so large in their calculations they are each fighting not only the common enemies but also, in a negative fashion, their allies."

What allies did China really have in 1943? Could she have regarded the Russians as allies, knowing that for centuries it had been Russian policy to conquer China? Chiang Kai-shek would have been a fool had he not realized that in the war against Japan, he would have no ally in Soviet Russia. And the fact is that Russia never came into the Far Eastern War until it was really over and then came in, for about a week, for the kill.

Davies also made a great discovery:

"A second fundamental difficulty confronting General Stilwell is that, in addition to his professional military task, he is involved, whether he likes it or not, in Chinese domestic politics."

Davies also wrote: "In his efforts to short-circuit domestic politics, General Stilwell has as much as possible dealt directly with the Generalissimo. But the Generalissimo maintains his paramount position as he attained it — through political manipulation. He is not a dictator. He has no absolute over-all command. He manipulates a delicate and shifting balance of power. So there is no one with sure and final authority with whom General Stilwell can deal."

General Stilwell's task was to win the war. That is what he was sent to China to do. But he really set out to change China. The Chinese people have no concept of self-government. China had never been a national state. It was, in effect, a vast congregation of local self-governments — of village self-governments. Whereas the Emperor possessed great authority, the village was much like a New England township. If a man were asked what he belonged to, he would say Canton or Ningpo or some such place. It has always taken the finest diplomacy to hold China together. I do not mean only during the regime of Chiang Kai-shek, but throughout the history of the country.

It is possible to go on quoting Davies line by line to indicate an intellectual arrogance. Not even Mao Tse-tung has been able to change China. Davies wrote:

"China is badly in need of the Puritan spirit. The Chinese have not produced it themselves excepting, in a modified form, in the Generalissimo. If the Chinese Army is to be regenerated, it must be through General Stilwell. What he says sometimes stings the Chinese."

But it has not gone wholly unappreciated. More than a score of high-ranking Chinese officers have come to him privately telling him that he was doing China a great service by his forthrightness, that he is needed, and to keep on going straight down the road. And as has been said, even his political enemies have been impressed by what he has in six months produced — a Chinese offensive against the Japanese. If it happens it will have been a one-man achievement."

And that is what policy was based on!

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FOR A QUARTER century or more, the late George S. Kaufman was known as "Mr. Theatre" by show folks—the man everybody sought to patch up shows that were in obvious trouble during their pre-Broadway trial runs in New Haven or Boston.

Kaufman was sitting disconsolately in the rear row at a disastrous try-out of his own one evening—a limp musical called "Park Avenue." Producer Nunnally Johnson was keeping him company. "What are you going to do about this?" asked Johnson sympathetically. "There's only one thing we can do," replied Kaufman bitterly. "We'll have to send for George S. Kaufman!"

Joey Bishop, performing at a Las Vegas club, was annoyed by a patron who insisted on getting in on his act. "Would you mind not singing along with me?" chided Bishop. "Do I look like I have a beard?" When the patron had left in a huff—presumably to seek out a more accommodating Mitch Miller—Bishop confided to his audience, "I bet that square lives so far away from town that the mailman has to mail him his mail."

Lord Mayor Briccone, of Dublin, is reviving a joke which was told here fifty years ago by Finley Peter Dunne. It concerns the Hibernian who told his neighbor, "My daughter's fiancé hasn't much money, but at least he's an Irishman." "Oh, really," nodded the neighbor absent-mindedly. "No," corrected the Hibernian. "O'Reilly."

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.
Artistic genius! Eyes that tire before reading one page!

Astigmatism can cause both. Astigmatism refers to a lens or picture window in front of the pupil that bends irregularly — sideways, up and down or at an angle in-between.

Everything looks distorted, stretched out of shape, like a TV screen with an unbalanced picture. Circles become ovals; figures grotesque.

To test for astigmatism, you look at a chart that resembles a clock. A finely-lined minute hand points to each numeral. If some look sharp and others hazy, you have astigmatism. When special lenses clear this haziness, the doctor can tell how much and at which angle.

Test your own glasses! Hold them 18 inches away and move them side to side.

Does a distant image move in the same direction? Then you're nearsighted. In the opposite direction? You're far-sighted. If the image doesn't seem to move, the lens is plain glass.

Now rotate the glass around. Does a distant image stretch and shrink in and out of shape? Then you have astigmatism.

Astigmatism explains the peculiar style of three famous artists. One painted Henry VIII with a broad, massive chest and Christ reclining, long and slender. Here astigmatism stretched horizontal lines.

Vertical astigmatism accounted for another artists' preference for tall, slender, standing figures. A third painter, El Greco, drew uneasy, nervous figures that seemed to be leaning or sliding off the corner of the canvas. His astigmatism ran at an angle.

Genius vanished when these lenses that corrected for astigmatism. You could see only normal figures. Artistic style had blossomed from poor vision!

Still, poor vision won't make your child a genius when near-sighted eyes can't see the blackboard, farsighted can't read print or astigmatism tires both.

Remember, check each eye when you're worried about IQ! Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — You, the consumer, are the biggest factor in the economy. And the government wants to help keep the economy from dawdling—to help, maybe, by from $5 to $9 billion worth.

That's why tax relief for individuals is proposed by President Kennedy. While the emphasis of his tax cutting plan is laid on spurring hesitant business to raise its spending plans and on counteracting the harm an ailing stock market has done to confidence, the amount that may be pared from individual federal income taxes could prove a top weapon in the fight to increase the rate of economic growth.

That's because you aren't expected to hold onto whatever you income tax cuts, when and if put into effect. You are expected to spend it—in the stores, at the auto dealers, the housing development, or for the countless services that mean more in your life all the time. Or, if you're in top income brackets, you're expected to put your tax savings into direct and indirect investment in business ventures.

This recognition of the big role the individual can play and does play, if he has the wherewithal, is an essential part of Kennedy's tax reform proposals, promised later this summer.

Earlier plans, now before Congress or in the works in the Internal Revenue Service, concentrate almost exclusively on incentives for business expansion through revamping depreciation allowances for tax purposes. This is important, especially now that business is hesitant.

But consumer spending can give a big boost, too. The President hasn't spelled out how big a cut in individual income taxes he wants. In any case the cuts won't be a certainty until Congress takes final action.

Because the economy has dawdled there has been a good deal of wishful thinking recently that individual taxes would be cut this year. Also behind such thinking was the realization that tax bills originate in the lower house of Congress, and this is a congressional election year.

This hope for an early windfall for the individual taxpayer seems dashed by the President's statement that he wants the next Congress, not this one, to cut taxes. The cuts would affect income earned after Jan. 1, but wouldn't change the amount deducted from your pay this year, or the amount you'll be liable for next April 1.

Whatever the taxpayers in the lower income brackets may save by such a cut is expected to flow almost automatically into the channels of trade. The individual sums will be small; the total will be large, because the Treasury gets the lion share of its revenues from those in the lower brackets.

In the middle brackets, some of the tax relief could be put into various forms of saving and some into direct investment in business. But a large amount probably would go into goods and services—things wanted now, but just out of reach of disposable income after taxes.

Stillwell Faced Huge Task

By George Sokolsky

In the discussions about Cuba and Indonesia, Laos and elsewhere, it is clear that the State Department, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was President, developed a concept that there were good dictators and bad dictators, honest men and dishonest men and that political judgements were to be based upon such psychological considerations.

This is brought out most clearly in a memorandum dated March 9, 1943, signed by John Davies, Jr., the Second Secretary of the American Embassy in China. Discussing the Stilwell Mission to China, Davies wrote:

"We recognized before December 7, 1941 that China was endeavoring to get us to fight its battle against Japan. There has been no reason for a change in this Chinese attitude and there has in fact been no change, despite the disillusioning shock of Pearl Harbor which struck the Chinese with as great force as it did us."

This was written on March 9, 1943. The Chinese had been fighting the Japanese since 1931. The Japanese had taken Manchuria and the major commercial port of Shanghai. China had stood alone for 10 years until the United States entered the war. Beset by Communist activities, supported by Russia, China had fought valiantly and unconquered.

But Davies wrote: "We have not bled enough for the liking of the Russians, the British or the Chinese. With political considerations looming so large in their calculations they are each fighting not only the common enemies but also, in a negative fashion, their allies."

What allies did China really have in 1943? Could she have regarded the Russians as allies, knowing that for centuries it had been Russian policy to conquer China? Chiang Kai-shek would have been a fool had he not realized that in the war against Japan, he would have no ally in Soviet Russia. And the fact is that Russia never came into the Far Eastern War until it was really over and then came in, for about a week, for the kill.

Davies also made a great discovery:

"A second fundamental difficulty confronting General Stilwell is that, in addition to his professional military task, he is involved, whether he likes it or not, in Chinese domestic politics."

Davies also wrote: "In his efforts to short-circuit domestic politics, General Stilwell has as much as possible dealt directly with the Generalissimo. But the Generalissimo maintains his paramount position as he attained it — through political manipulation. He is not a dictator. He has no absolute over-all command. He manipulates a delicate and shifting balance of power. So there is no one with sure and final authority with whom General Stilwell can deal."

General Stilwell's task was to win the war. That is what he was sent to China to do. But he really set out to change China. The Chinese people have no concept of self-government. China had never been a national state. It was, in effect, a vast congregation of local self-governments — of village self-governments. Whereas the Emperor or possessed great authority, the village was much like a New England township. If a man were asked what he belonged to, he would say Canton or Ningpo or some such place. It has always taken the finest diplomacy to hold China together. I do not mean only during the regime of Chiang Kai-shek, but throughout the history of the country.

It is possible to go on quoting Davies line by line to indicate an intellectual arrogance. Not even Mao Tse-tung has been able to change China, Davies wrote:

"China is badly in need of the Puritan spirit. The Chinese have not produced it themselves excepting, in a modified form, in the Generalissimo. If the Chinese Army is to be regenerated, it must be through General Stilwell. What he says sometimes stings the Chinese."

But it has not gone wholly unappreciated. More than a score of high-ranking Chinese officers have come to him privately telling him that he was doing China a great service by his forthrightness, that he is needed, and to keep on going straight down the road. And as has been said, even his political enemies have been impressed by what he has in six months produced — a Chinese offensive against the Japanese. If it happens it will have been a one-man achievement."

And that is what policy was based on!

Metric Plan Advocate To Try Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' most vocal advocate of the meter, the liter and the gram said today he is ready to try again to have them made standard in the United States.

And the sole remaining active member of the self-styled "Economy Party" is as determined as ever that Congress shall not authorize $500,000 for a study of the possibilities and problems of substituting the metric system for the weights and measures now standard in this country.

So another clash between Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, and Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, appears inevitable.

Gross has won them all so far. But Miller says he has effective new tactics and arguments.

big the reductions might be. But he did say that the cuts would not be completely offset by other provisions of the measure which presumably would be designed to recover some of the lost revenue.

Urging Congress to act quickly on economic measures he has urged, the President said: "There is no need for us to stand helplessly by and watch our economy run out of gas."

Some of these measures, he said, would:

Give business a $1.3-billion incentive to acquire new plant and equipment; standby authority to cut income taxes by 5 per cent if a recession threatens; repeal the 10 per cent transportation tax on train and bus travel.

He contended that the economy has "very good vitality" and with a shove from his recommended legislation could come near the $570-billion gross national product level.

Currently the nation's output is running between $550 and $560 billion a year.

Kennedy attributed the stock market decline mainly to an overpriced situation, saying that financial experts had felt for some time that it would not hold up after realization of the situation.

Church-Backed Movie Views Various Automation Aspects

NEW YORK — President Kennedy has called automation the number one domestic problem of our day.

Obviously, the topic has been one of major concern to both management and labor. Now a large church has decided the clergy has a responsibility in the matter and it has produced a most unusual motion picture which probes into the issues related to automation.

The movie is called "Tomorrow?" It contains the question mark, its producers say, because it's full of questions.

"Tomorrow?" was produced by the United Church of Christ, the new denomination which came into being last year, through the union of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The denomination's leaders believe it to be the first effort of a church group to undertake this type of presentation of a social problem to stimulate discussion and help find a solution.

The movie presents the various aspects of the problems created when men and women are replaced by robot machines, but it wisely refrains from offering solutions or any single religious answer.

Views of management, organized labor, individual employees, religious leaders and others are juxtaposed to set forth the ethics and customs challenged in the industrial revolution now taking place.

"Tomorrow?" boldly inquires into what happens to a man whose job has been eliminated by the introduction of an electronic machine; where the new jobs for men displaced by automation are coming from; the practice of "featherbedding"; re-training and re-employment programs for the displaced workers; the matter of labor-management relations; racial discrimination; and finally, into the role the church can take in the disputes brought about when a factory or office becomes automated.

A study manual accompanies the film and points out, as do those who discuss the subject in the film, that automation is essential if the United States is to maintain its position in the world, but that present workers must keep their employment or be trained for new jobs and that jobs for future generations must be considered.

"Tomorrow?" will be distributed nationally. The United Church of Christ has processed hundreds of prints for showing before civic groups, industrial organizations, unions, women's clubs, libraries, employees in factories and to students in universities, as well as in churches, of course.

The automobile industry zoomed along at the head of the industrial parade. In May it sold 565,837 U.S.-made passenger cars, the highest since September of record 1955.

For General Motors, with sales of 381,644 units, it was the biggest month in its history.

Industry sales since Jan. 1 through May 30 totaled 2,837,000.

Production during the week was estimated at 151,434 against 121,321 last week and 127,383 a year ago.

On the other hand, steel production fell during the week for the ninth straight week. Output of 1,586,000 tons was 3.6 per cent below the previous week.

With the industry's production down to about 55 per cent of capacity from 80 per cent at the end of March, producers ordered layoffs and short work weeks.

The railroads and 11 unions representing 450,000 nonoperating workers reached agreement in line with recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board. It provides a wage increase of 10.28 cents an hour.

Turkey Marketing Vote Nears; Eligibility Requirements Noted

With the national turkey marketing order referendum only a few days away (June 18-22), Galen D. Mowery of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (State, County) Committee today reminded prospective voters of eligibility requirements and balloting procedure.

Eligible voters are "producer-growers" who marketed more than 3,600 pounds (live-weight) of turkeys in 1961 and "contact-producers" who in 1961 had a risk-of-loss contract in turkeys produced by a producer-grower. Cooperative associations may vote for their producer members provided they have qualified to do so by June 8, 1962.

All voters must certify the lightweight volume of their turkey marketings in 1961. Producer-growers may certify by mail (on forms sent to them by the ASCS County office — where they also cast their ballots) or in person at the County office when they vote.

Contract-producers and cooperatives voting for their members are required to file certifications by June 8 in the ASCS State office for the state in which their principal place of business is located. If they operate in only one county, however, they may file in that county.

County ASCS officials on the ballots given or mailed to voters after they have registered and certified their volume of marketing. Each voter will receive with his ballot and envelope marked "ballot" and another bearing the voter's return address and addressed to the State or County ASCS office in which his vote must be cast.

If a voter casts his ballot by mail, he should mark it "yes" or "no", place the ballot in the envelope marked "ballot," seal it, and place it in the envelope addressed to the ASCS office.

Ballots sent by mail will be accepted if they are postmarked not later than midnight June 22. If the voter wishes, he may receive his ballot and vote it in person at the ASCS office.

Kennedy's Tax Cut Idea Tops Business News

The Circleville Herald, Mon. June 11, 1962
Circleville, Ohio

NEW YORK (AP) — The top recent business news was President Kennedy's promise to recommend an income tax cut and his pressure on Congress to keep the nation's economy from faltering.

He conceded that his hope of attaining a 1962 economic output of $570 billion probably will not be realized, and put some of the blame on the stock market decline.

The across-the-board tax reduction for individuals and corporations would, if enacted by Congress, be effective next Jan. 1.

First word of the administration's intention came Monday night from Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon in a New York speech. He gave no details.

Kennedy said at his news conference Thursday that the provisions of the tax bill won't be completed until this summer. He added that the recommendation will be sent to Congress this year.

Kennedy declined to say how big the reductions might be. But he did say that the cuts would not be completely offset by other provisions of the measure which presumably would be designed to recover some of the lost revenue.

Urging Congress to act quickly on economic measures he has urged, the President said: "There is no need for us to stand helplessly by and watch our economy run out of gas."

Some of these measures, he said, would:

Give business a $1.3-billion incentive to acquire new plant and equipment; standby authority to cut income taxes by 5 per cent if a recession threatens; repeal the 10 per cent transportation tax on train and bus travel.

He contended that the economy has "very good vitality" and with a shove from his recommended legislation could come near the $570-billion gross national product level.

Currently the nation's output is running between $550 and $560 billion a year.

Kennedy attributed the stock market decline mainly to an overpriced situation, saying that financial experts had felt for some time that it would not hold up after realization of the situation.

Dr. Marcus Nadler, consulting economist for the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York, commenting on Dillon's earlier speech, had said: "Details of the tax-cut plan should be spelled out soon. I believe a reduction would be a good step in that it would automatically increase disposable income."

Some brokers felt the Dillon announcement Monday night played a part in arresting a stock market fall that had been deep that day. Others discounted it, saying that prices were ready for a rebound from the low levels to which they had fallen.

The President's statement failed to stir the market on Friday. Wall Street analysts indicated that details would have to be spelled out before investors translated their opinions into action which would affect the market.

Volume of trading, which at 40,563,230 shares the previous week, fell to 20,041,630. The level a year ago was 19,721,550. Bond sales for the week totaled $41,778,000 par value, compared with $55,510,000 the previous week and $29,932,000 for the comparable week last year.

Some brokers saw in activity on the stock market a hope for market stabilization which may be followed by an advance.

Others, in a pessimistic attitude, warned that this wasn't necessarily the end of the sharp decline which began in mid-March.

The automobile industry zoomed along at the head of the industrial parade. In May it sold 565,837 U.S.-made passenger cars, the highest since September of record 1955.

For General Motors, with sales of 381,644 units, it was the biggest month in its history.

Cooperative associations may vote for their producer members provided they have qualified to do so by June 8, 1962.

All voters must certify the lightweight volume of their turkey marketings in 1961. Producer-growers may certify by mail (on forms sent to them by the ASCS County office — where they also cast their ballots) or in person at the County office when they vote.

Contract-producers and cooperatives voting for their members are required to file certifications by June 8 in the ASCS State office for the state in which their principal place of business is located. If they operate in only one county, however, they may file in that county.

IN EACH case, the volume certified will be marked by State or County ASCS officials on the ballots given or mailed to voters after they have registered and certified their volume of marketing. Each voter will receive with his ballot and envelope marked "ballot" and another bearing the voter's return address and addressed to the State or County ASCS office in which his vote must be cast.

If a voter casts his ballot by mail, he should mark it "yes" or "no", place the ballot in the envelope marked "ballot," seal it, and place it in the envelope addressed to the ASCS office.

Ballots sent by mail will be accepted if they are postmarked not later than midnight June 22. If the voter wishes, he may receive his ballot and vote it in person at the ASCS office.

Sidewalk Cleric Fined

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Rev. Melvin Sharrock, 50, has been fined $121 in Municipal Court for disorderly conduct stemming from sidewalk preaching.

Since many diseases can live in seed, it is unwise for the home gardener to save seed from his own garden unless he knows the seed to be free from disease.

Gleason Making His First Hollywood Movie in Years

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The sign on the dressing room suite read "The Great One," so you knew it had to belong to Jackie Gleason.

Inside you were greeted by members of the Gleason staff and ushered into the presence of the man himself. He was sitting in a corner, his barrel shape wrapped in a white terry-cloth robe. He was drinking—coffee.

"Never drink booze on the job," he explained. "But afterwards—watch out!"

Gleason was at Paramount for "Papa's Delicate Condition," his first Hollywood film in a dozen years. The circumstances are somewhat different this time.

"That last one was called 'Desert Hawk,' and it was a lulu," he recounted. "Tell you how I got the job."

"I went to see the producer and he was having a pedicure. I want you to know. He was saying, 'Watch out, Mildred, how you cut the big toe,' while I was trying to tell him what a great Arab I would make."

"Finally he said, 'Can you ride?' I said I could ride like the wind—I had never been on a horse in my life. He said, 'Can you duel?' I said I was a whiz at fencing—I didn't know the first thing about it."

"Then he said, 'You can't have the job.' I said 'Why not?' and he said, 'Because you got blue eyes, and Arabs don't have blue eyes.'"

"I said, 'Then you're in trouble, Bud, because your leading man is Richard Greene, and he has two of the bluest eyes I've ever seen!'"

"The guy was really worried and he called up research and said, 'See if there are any Arabs with blue eyes.' The answer came back that there may be two or three Arabs somewhere with blue eyes. So he told me I could have the job."

"I never got close enough to the camera for anyone to see my eyes. Most of the time I was peeking around Rock Hudson."

Such was Gleason's first movie career. He did six films in the '40s, including "Orchestra Wives" and "Navy Blues."

"Most of the time I was playing with scene-stealers like Jack Oakie, Martha Raye, Peter Lorre and Edward Everett Horton," he recalled. "I never had a chance."

His second time around is another matter. He got an Oscar His "Gig" and "Requiem for a Heavyweight" are highly touted. And now "Papa's Delicate Condition."

One of Papa's delicate conditions in the film is that he nips, and Gleason admitted the casting was apt. He gave his philosophy on the grape:

"If you don't know why you're drinking, you're in trouble. I've always drunk for one reason only: To get smashed."

"As I told Arthur Godfrey once, drinking can remove warts, wrinkles, pimples and other blemishes. Not on yourself—on other people."

Metric Plan Advocate To Try Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' most vocal advocate of the meter, the liter and the gram said today he is ready to try again to have them made standard in the United States.

And the sole remaining active member of the self-styled "Economy Party" is as determined as ever that Congress shall not authorize $500,000 for a study of the possibilities and problems of substituting the metric system for the weights and measures now standard in this country.

So another clash between Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, and Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, appears inevitable.

Gross has won them all so far. But Miller says he has effective new tactics and arguments. "The pharmaceutical industry—which is not a small one—already is on the metric system," he said.

"The big new development is the drive for us to have close trade relationships with the European Common Market. If we are to do business with them, it makes sense to use the same measures they do."

MRS. ALBERT W. LIGGETT

Goldschmidt, Liggett Vows Read in Methodist Church

Miss Joanna May Goldschmidt, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David S. Goldschmidt, 901 Atwater Ave., became the bride of Mr. Robert Prine Liggett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Liggett, Ripley, O., at 4:30 p. m. Sunday in the First Methodist Church, Circleville.

The Rev. Paul I. Wachs performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of large white mums, white gladioli and huckleberry foliage, flanked by white tapers in tall candelabra. The low altar was decorated with white gladioli and small mums. Aisle pews were enhanced with white satin bows and greenery.

Miss Joanna Hunsinger, Williamsport, was organist and Miss Barbara Rouch, Gahanna, presented vocal solos for the program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza fashioned with a scooped neckline and bracelet length sleeves. The bodice and the bell skirt, which was accented in the back with a soft peplum centered with a hand blown rose, were frosted with hand-clipped Chantilly lace strewn with seed pearls and iridescents. The lace was repeated at the end of the full chapel train.

A forward spray of pearl buds and lily of the valley held the bride's bouffant veil of imported English silk illusion. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis centered with a yellow throatied white orchid and white satin streamers of shattered carnations.

Mrs. John Dougherty served her twin sister as matron of honor and Miss Elaine Goldschmidt, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Miss Anne Steele, Circleville, Miss Sherrie McCoy, Columbus, Miss Carole Weiler, Circleville and Miss Miriam Wehe, Bellaire, were the bridesmaids. They wore identical afternoon length dresses of aqua organza designed with scooped necklines accented with cowl drapes in the back, cap sleeves and softly belled skirts. Their matching bandeaus of organza roses held circular veils. The matron of honor and the maid of honor carried baskets of white daisies, yellow roses and huckleberry foliage. The bridesmaids carried baskets of white daisies and huckleberry foliage.

Miss Michele Perini, Garden City, N. Y., cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a white embroidered organza dress with aqua underskirt.

Mr. Richard D. Pieper, Columbus, served as best man. The ushers were Mr. John Dougherty, Circleville, Mr. Ben Games, West Union, Mr. David Eberhart, Columbus, Mr. Jerry Leist, Circleville and Mr. Joe Creel, Coral Gables, Fla. Master Howard Johnson, Dayton, nephew of the groom, was the ring bearer.

Mrs. Goldschmidt chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of mauve silk organza with matching hat and shoes and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Liggett wore a moss green silk dress with beige accessories.

Mrs. Carl W. Kietzman, Cincinnati will be guest speaker when the Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, convenes for a 12:30 p. m. June 19 luncheon meeting at the American Legion Home on Route 23.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

Votes Still Coming In!

DEAR ABBY: Should a clergyman phone in advance of visiting? No. There is too much tidying up and making coffee which turns a minister's call into a social affair when it is intended for deeper than social purposes. I've checked with three other ministers and three housewives and they are all in favor of the unannounced call from the clergy.

Rev. Earl Roadman
(Methodist, Dike, Iowa)

DEAR ABBY: I think people have a right to advance notice when a visitor comes, no matter who that visitor may be. People like to be received with kindness and in a becoming manner, and surprise visits do not always permit this. Courtesy should be made easy for a hostess instead of offering a sudden challenge to her ability to receive guests graciously.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor J.F. Brady
(St. Patrick's Cathedral, Eau Claire, Wisconsin)

DEAR ABBY: A clergyman, however well motivated, presumes too much when thinks his visit is always welcome under all and any circumstances. A visit is always more welcome when the hostess has an opportunity to prepare herself. The informal, drop-in type visit sounds folksy and charming.

Union Guild To Meet

The Union Guild will meet 2 p. m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Henry Streitenberger, 125 Highland Ave.

Mrs. Georgia Anderson will be co-hostess.

Ladies Aid Meet Set

The Ringgold EUB Ladies Aid will meet 2 p. m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Isabelle Baker, Route 4.

but it is anything but that. In any well-ordered busy household it's an arrogant nuisance. The unexpected visit went out with the quilting bee.

Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR ABBY: If I had to wait until I was invited how many homes do you think I would get into? Have you ever tried to phone a dozen people in one day, with a mind to get into their homes, that is? Pastors should not be put in the same category with salesmen, campaigners, census-takers and strangers.

PASTOR

DEAR ABBY: My Dad is a Baptist preacher and I know for a fact that preachers do not have time to call everyone they visit. If people are doing something they want to cover up from the preacher, what are they going to do when Jesus comes?

PREACHER'S DAUGHTER

DEAR ABBY: Do you know the average clergyman works 14 hours a day, including Saturdays and Sundays? He makes calls between sermon preparations, meetings, civic work, classes, weddings, funerals, hospital calls and counseling. Everyone thinks his clergyman has nothing to do. How in the world do you expect him to telephone on Tuesday to warn Mrs. X to clean house for Thursday? Besides, a clergyman wants to find the REAL person, not an artificial dressed-up one. Why should he drive himself into a nervous breakdown just to satisfy some house-proud woman?

Mrs. Liggett wore a moss green silk dress with beige accessories and her corsage was deep rose cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held at the Elks' Home following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a traditional white wedding cake surrounded by yellow sweetheart roses. Arrangements of white Fuji mums, huckleberry foliage, trailing ivy and white tapers were used to accent the other decorations.

Hostesses for the reception were Miss Sharon Fink, Upper Sandusky, Miss Jane Davidson, Newark, Miss Myra Brosh, North Olmsted, Miss Rita Arthur, Fairborn, Miss Mary Ann Edstrom, Miss Barbara Samuel, Miss Beth Rickey, Miss Patti Hines and Miss Elaine Hutzelman, Circleville.

The new Mrs. Liggett wore a grey denim sheath dress with matching California style jacket, white accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet, when the couple left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. When they return they will reside at 1407 N. Fourth St., Apt. 11, Columbus.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Circleville High School and a 1962 graduate of Ohio State University where she was a member of Phi Mu Sorority. She is now employed in data processing by the Department of Finance, State of Ohio.

Mr. Liggett is junior in the School of Optometry at Ohio State University. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity and Epsilon Psi Epsilon professional fraternity.

Pickaway DAR Unit To Hear Address by Mrs. Kietzman

Mrs. Carl W. Kietzman, Cincinnati will be guest speaker when the Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, convenes for a 12:30 p. m. June 19 luncheon meeting at the American Legion Home on Route 23.

Mrs. Kietzman was born and educated in Texas. She served as State Corresponding Secretary of the Ohio Society, DAR prior to her election as state recording secretary in 1959.

Having served in this capacity for three years, Mrs. Kietzman was elected state vice regent of the Ohio Society DAR at the State Conference in March of this year. She is also the National Chairman of National Defense Committee for the Ohio Society.

Mrs. Kietzman served the Cincinnati Chapter as chairman of the DAR Magazine, of national defense and as regent. During her regency the Chapter was three times on the honor roll. She is presently serving as chairman of resolutions and parliamentary.

In the Ohio Society, Mrs. Kietzman served as District co-chairman of the Ohio Society.

The newly elected worthy adviser, Cathie Joseph, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Homer Beath, mother adviser, assisted.

Balloting was the main order of business. Marietta Sweeney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Sweeney, 535 Ridgewood Drive, was elected to receive the degrees.

Michele Funk was appointed chairman of the Circleville calling committee for the present term.

A special ceremony was held honoring those graduating from high school. The graduates received a diploma, a red rose and a gift. The seniors honored from Circleville were Ethel Fullen, Michele Funk, and Stephanie Marion. Refreshments were served.

Attending from Circleville were Betsy Barnhart, Marilyn Clifton, Ethel Fullen, Michele Funk, Sally Griner, Robin Hurlbut, Patsy Latimer, Stephanie Marion, and Pam Sweeney.

man of National Defense and of the Speakers Bureau, and as State Promoter of CAR. Her memberships in other patriotic organizations include the U. S. Daughters of 1812 and the Daughters of the American Colonists, the American Legion Auxiliary and the auxiliary of the Reserve Officers Association.

She is an active member of the Milford Methodist Church. As a third-generation daughter, she is devoted to the principles and ideals of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Votes Still Coming In!

DEAR ABBY: Should a clergyman phone in advance of visiting? No. There is too much tidying up and making coffee which turns a minister's call into a social affair when it is intended for deeper than social purposes. I've checked with three other ministers and three housewives and they are all in favor of the unannounced call from the clergy.

Rev. Earl Roadman (Methodist, Dike, Iowa)

DEAR ABBY: I think people have a right to advance notice when a visitor comes, no matter who that visitor may be. People like to be received with kindness and in a becoming manner, and surprise visits do not always permit this. Courtesy should be made easy for a hostess instead of offering a sudden challenge to her ability to receive guests graciously.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor J.F. Brady (St. Patrick's Cathedral, Eau Claire, Wisconsin)

DEAR ABBY: A clergyman, however well motivated, presumes too much when thinks his visit is always welcome under all and any circumstances. A visit is always more welcome when the hostess has an opportunity to prepare herself. The informal, drop-in type visit sounds folksy and charming, but it is anything but that. In any well-ordered busy household it's an arrogant nuisance. The unexpected visit went out with the quilting bee.

Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz, Washington, D.C.

DEAR ABBY: If I had to wait until I was invited how many homes do you think I would get into? Have you ever tried to phone a dozen people in one day, with a mind to get into their homes, that is? Pastors should not be put in the same category with salesmen, campaigners, census-takers and strangers.

PASTOR

DEAR ABBY: My Dad is a Baptist preacher and I know for a fact that preachers do not have time to call everyone they visit. If people are doing something they want to cover up on the preacher, what are they going to do when Jesus comes?

PREACHER'S DAUGHTER

DEAR ABBY: Do you know the average clergyman works 14 hours a day, including Saturdays and Sundays? He makes calls between sermon preparations, meetings, civic work, classes, weddings, funerals, hospital calls and counseling. Everyone thinks his clergyman has nothing to do. How in the world do you expect him to telephone on Tuesday to warn Mrs. X to clean house for Thursday? Besides, a clergyman wants to find the REAL person, not an artificial dressed-up one. Why should he drive himself into a nervous breakdown just to satisfy some house-proud woman?

CLERGYMAN'S WIFE

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

ADDING PUNCH TO PROMOTION—Two of boxing's most revered men, former heavy champ Joe Louis (left), and the former (still part) light heavyweight champ, Archie Moore, accent the coming light heavyweight title fight in West Berlin, Germany, June 23. The foes are Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, who has recognition as champ, and Gustav Scholz of Germany. Louis is now a promoter for United World Enterprises which is staging the bout. Moore recently was held to a draw by Willie Pastrano.

Local Legion Team Drops Doubleheader

Circleville's American Legion team lost both ends of a double header yesterday 2-1 and 8-2 to a strong Marysville team.

The two teams garnered a total of only three hits in the first game. Gearhizer Marysville first sacker had their only two hits, two singles. Jack Cook had Circleville's only bingle, a second inning single. Marysville scored their two runs in the third inning on two errors, a base on balls, a fielder's choice and one of Gearhizer's two hits. Circleville scored their run in the seventh inning without the benefit of a hit. Two Marysville errors and base on balls sandwiched between two groundouts gave them their tally.

Walsh, Marysville hurler, had eight strikeouts and Weller, Circleville pitcher, had four.

In the second game a big five run sixth inning tied the game for Marysville. Gearhizer's triple was the big blow of the inning. It came after two Circleville errors, two walks, and a single. In addition to Gearhizer's triple, he had two other singles in the second game to give him a total of five hits for the afternoon.

Circleville scored one run in the second and one in the third. A base on balls and singles by Jeff Ingman and Mickey Hunt were instrumental in the second inning scoring. In the third inning a lead off walk and a two out single by Freddie Moore scored Circleville's second run.

Marysville had seven bingles in

Crimson Satan Proves Puzzle

Sprinter's Behavior In Stretch Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — Crimson Satan, the 1961 2-year-old champ, hasn't won a major race this year but he still could be a big factor in unscrambling the puzzle which Jaipur made of the 3-year-old title picture by winning the $153,300 Belmont Stakes.

First of all, however, Trainer George Potter must find what causes the Crimson King Farm's ace to lug in when he hooks up with other horses in a stretch battle such as developed in the final eighth of a mile last Saturday at Belmont Park.

With an eighth of a mile of the 1 1/4-mile test remaining, Manuel Ycaza drove Crimson Satan to almost even terms with Jaipur and Admiral's Voyage. Admiral's Voyage, who had set nearly all the early pace, was on the rail, Crimson Satan on the outside.

Suddenly Satan lugged in and bumped Jaipur. Like a shot, Jaipur took off again but Admiral's Voyage answered the challenge with one of his own. As they reached the finish line, Willie Shoemaker dropped Jaipur's head in front to take the winner's share of $109,350 and give owner George D. Widener his first Belmont Stakes winner after 10 failures. Crimson Satan was 1 1/4 lengths back in third place.

Crimson Satan's tendency to bear in previously had cost him the $130,700 Jersey Derby at Garden State Park on Memorial Day. He came from behind to finish ahead of Jaipur and Admiral's Voyage but lugged in and was disqualified. Jaipur was moved into first place and Admiral's Voyage awarded second.

"I've about come to the conclusion it is something in his head that makes him duck in," said Potter before shipping Crimson Satan to Monmouth Park at Oceanport, N.J. "I can't find what is hurting him. Perhaps there is a mental block. He doesn't do it until he hooks up with other horses in the stretch."

Iles Pigeons Tops in Field At Chillicothe

Eugene Iles, 350 Logan St., won both the regular 150 mile race and the 150 mile two-bird derby held by the Chillicothe Pigeon Club Saturday.

Iles won the trophy with a speed of 1,425,360 yards per minute and topped second with a speed of 1,423,424 yards per minute.

Veteran flyer Virgil Russell, 360 Logan St., was a close third with a speed of 1,422,222 yards per minute.

There were 61 birds from seven lofts competing in the event.

Crackers Reach For 1st Division

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Atlanta Crackers were just a half game out of the first division of the International League today.

The Crackers whipped the Rochester Red Wings twice Sunday, 10-4, 4-0. They now are only nine percentage points behind the Wings in the battle for fourth place.

In other action Sunday, Buffalo won a doubleheader from Richmond, 6-1 and 5-4; Syracuse shut out Jacksonville 7-0, and the Columbus Jets turned back Toronto 7-6. The second game of the Columbus - Toronto doubleheader was called because of rain after four innings with the Leafs leading 2-1.

The second game and Circleville had five.

George Reeser had seven strikeouts for Circleville in the second game.

Maloney Back With Redlegs, Pitches Good

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Jim Maloney is a fine looking prospect, a terrific competitor and has a chance to be a good pitcher," Cincinnati Reds Manager Fred Hutchinson said when spring training started this year.

When it ended, Maloney was back in the minors. But now he's back again, determined to make good on his second crack at pitching with the Reds.

His slick, three-hit performance for most of seven innings Sunday kept the Philadelphia Phillies under control while the Reds went on a homer spree and belted out a 9-2 victory.

The Phillies had turned on their own heavy artillery in the rain-soaked opener and edged the Reds 7-5.

Maloney had little trouble before the seventh inning, giving up only a harmless single and John Callison's homer.

He wobbled in the seventh, however, giving two passes, a wild pitch and a run-making single before Bill Henry took over and put out the fire.

Joey Jay, 21-game winner in 1961, was unable to hold a three-run lead in the opener. He wild-pitched the deciding run across the plate.

Home runs also proved to be Jay's downfall. Wes Covington made two of them and also drove in another run with a single. Tony Taylor got the other homer for the Phils. Jay now is 7-6.

In the nightcap, Reds sluggers Frank Robinson, Gordie Coleman and Leo Cardenas hit homers in the sixth inning. Marty Keough got the Reds' first homer in the third.

In the nightcap, Reds sluggers Frank Robinson, Gordie Coleman and Leo Cardenas hit homers in the sixth inning. Marty Keough got the Reds' first homer in the third.

Home runs also proved to be Jay's downfall. Wes Covington made two of them and also drove in another run with a single. Tony Taylor got the other homer for the Phils. Jay now is 7-6.

Littler Looks Forward to National Open

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—Not since Ben Hogan did it in 1951 has a U.S. Open champion repeated, but Gene Littler, the sweet-swinging from San Diego, Calif., made it clear today that he is a real threat for his second straight title week at Oakmont, Pa.

"I'm pretty confident about my game," said Littler, who collected the $25,000 first prize—top payoff of the year—in the $100,000 Golf Classic Sunday. "I'm playing as well as I am capable of playing. I won't be the favorite though. I never am."

Those are strong words for Littler, an even-tempered quiet man who finally made the predictions of stardom for him stand up when he took the Open last year at Oakland Hills.

He banged out a 5 under par 67 Sunday, to come from a stroke back of Jack Nicklaus, and finish with 275, a four-day total of 13 under par on the 7,055-yard Upper Merion Country Club course.

Nicklaus had a final-round 70 for 277. Wes Ellis and Dow Finsterwald split third with 280.

Littler's victory shot him into second spot among the pro money winners with $53,704.16, behind Arnold Palmer who has $60,331.

Sadecki Is Over Mighty Big Hump

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"This is what you need to get over the hump," a happy Ray Sadecki said. The hump he was talking about was mighty large.

The 21-year-old left-handed pitcher, who won few friends last week in a hassle with St. Louis Cardinal management, made the remark after he defeated the San Francisco Giants 8-4 Saturday and got his first big league homer.

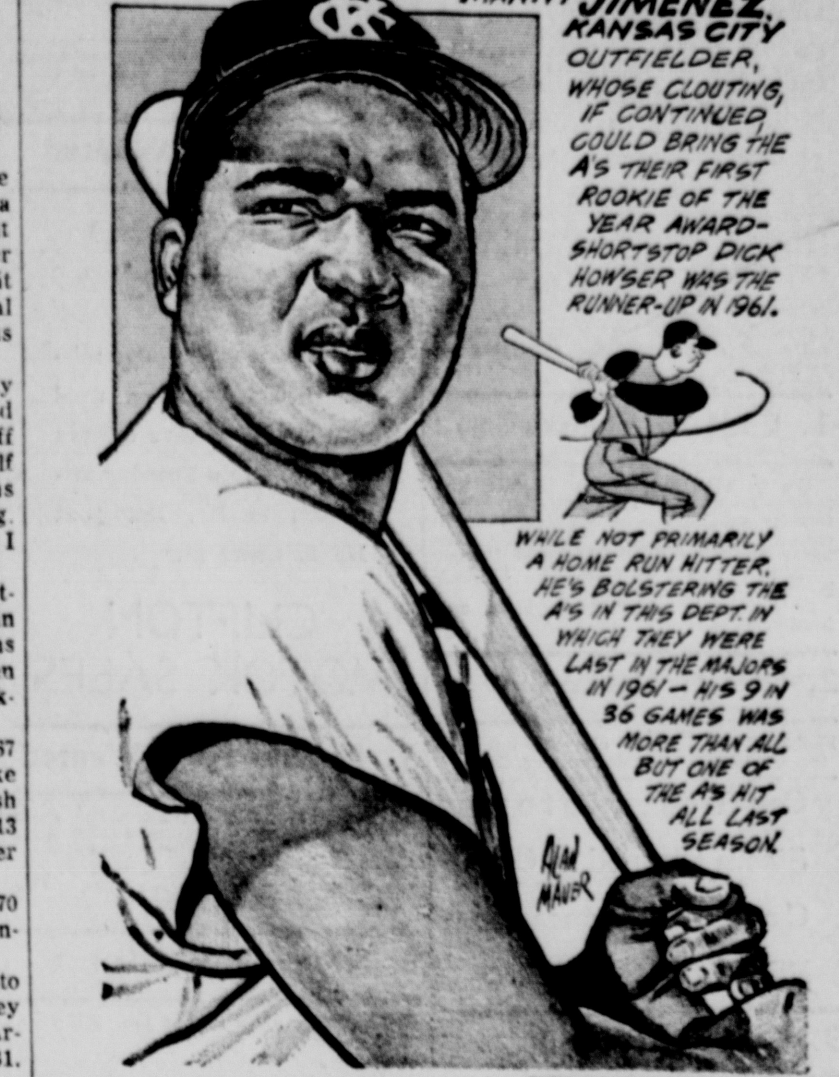

"What happened during the week is in the past," he said.

Manager Johnny Keane, who had few kind words for the $50,000 bonus baby when he fined him $250, obviously felt the same way.

And the fine appeared to have helped to shake the club out of its tailspin. The Red Birds, losers of eight in a row before the incident, now have seven straight victories.

George D. Widener's Jaipur was first or second in his first nine races then finished out of the money in the 1962 Preakness.

Russians Smash Another U.S. Mark

MOSCOW (AP) — Igor Ter-Ovanesyan, a tall, 24-year-old physical culture graduate who could pass for an Ivy Leaguer, today held the unofficial world broad jump record—the second Soviet athlete in a week to smash an American's world standard.

Ter-Ovanesyan leaped 27 feet, 3 inches Sunday in a meet in the Armenian capital of Yerevan, erasing Ralph Boston's listed world record of 27-1 1/4 set last year in the United States-Soviet Union meet here, according to Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

Just last Monday, Vladimir Trusenev smashed the world discus throw record with a toss of 202 feet, 2 1/4 inches. Al Oerter, America's two-time Olympic gold medal winner had become the world's first 200-footer three weeks earlier when he threw the discus 200-5/8.

Isagoodie is a 2-year-old brother of Intentionally. He is owned by Harry Isaac's Brookfield Farms. He names all his horses starting with the letter "I".

ADDING FURNER TO PROMOTION—Two of boxing's most revered men, former champion Joe Louis (left), and the former (still part) light heavyweight champ, Archie Moore, are adding a new heavyweight title fight in West Berlin, Germany, June 23. The foe is Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, who has recognition as champ, and Gustav Scholz of Germany. Louis is now a promoter for United World Enterprises which is staging the bout. Moore recently was held to a draw by Willie Pastrano.

Local Legion Team Drops Doubleheader

team lost both ends of a double header yesterday 2-1 and 8-2 to a strong Marysville team.

The two teams garnered a total of only three hits in the first game. Gearhizer Marysville first sacker had their only two hits, two singles. Jack Cook had Circleville's only single, a second inning run. Marysville scored their two runs in the third inning on two errors, a base on balls, a fielder's choice and one of Gearhizer's two hits. Circleville scored their run in the seventh inning without the benefit of a hit. Two Marysville errors and base on balls sandwiched between two groundouts gave them their tally.

Walsh, Marysville hurler, had eight strikeouts and Weller, Circleville pitcher, had four.

In the second game a big five run sixth inning iced the game for Marysville. Gearhizer's triple was the big blow of the inning. It came after two Circleville errors, two walks, and a single. In addition to Gearhizer's triple, he had two other singles in the second game to give him a total of five hits for the afternoon.

Circleville scored one run in the second and one in the third. A base on balls and singles by Jeff Ingman and Mickey Hunt were instrumental in the second inning scoring. In the third inning a lead off walk and a two out single by Freddie Moore scored Circleville's second run.

Marysville had seven bingles in

Crimson Satan Proves Puzzle

Sprinter's Behavior In Stretch Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — Crimson Satan, the 1961 2-year-old champ, hasn't won a major race this year but he still could be a big factor in unscrambling the puzzle which Jaipur made of the 3-year-old title picture by winning the $153,300 Belmont Stakes.

First of all, however, Trainer George Potter must find what causes the Crimson King Farm's ace to lug in when he hooks up with other horses in a stretch battle such as developed in the final eighth of a mile last Saturday at Belmont Park.

With an eighth of a mile of the 1 1/2-mile test remaining, Manuel Ycaza drove Crimson Satan to almost even terms with Jaipur and Admiral's Voyage. Admiral's Voyage, who had set nearly all the early pace, was on the rail, Crimson Satan on the outside.

Suddenly Satan lugged in and bumped Jaipur. Like a shot, Jaipur took off again but Admiral's Voyage answered the challenge with one of his own. As they reached the finish line, Willie Shoemaker dropped Jaipur's head in front to take the winner's share of $109,550 and give owner George D. Widener his first Belmont Stakes winner after 40 failures. Crimson Satan was 1 1/4 lengths back in third place.

Crimson Satan's tendency to bear in previously had cost him the $130,700 Jersey Derby at Garden State Park on Memorial Day. He came from behind to finish ahead of Jaipur and Admiral's Voyage but lugged in and was disqualified. Jaipur was moved into first place and Admiral's Voyage awarded second.

"I've about come to the conclusion it is something in his head that makes him duck in," said Potter before shipping Crimson Satan to Oceanport, N.J. "I can't find what is hurting him. Perhaps there is a mental block. He doesn't do it until he hooks up with other horses in the stretch."

Maloney Back With Redlegs, Pitches Good

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Jim Maloney is a fine looking prospect, a terrific competitor and has a chance to be a good pitcher," Cincinnati Reds Manager Fred Hutchinson said when spring training started this year.

When it ended, Maloney was back in the minors. But now he's back again, determined to make good on his second crack at pitching with the Reds.

His slick, three-hit performance for most of seven innings Sunday kept the Philadelphia Phillies under control while the Reds went on a homer spree and belted out a 9-2 victory.

The Phillies had turned on their own heavy artillery in the rain-soaked opener and edged the Reds 7-5.

Maloney had little trouble before the seventh inning, giving up only a harmless single and John Callison's homer.

He worked in the seventh, however, giving two passes, a wild pitch and a run-making single before Bill Henry took over and put out the fire.

Joey Jay, 21-game winner in 1961, was unable to hold a three-run lead in the opener. He wild-pitched the deciding run across the plate.

Home runs also proved to be Jay's downfall. Wes Covington made two of them and also drove in another run with a single. Tony Taylor got the other homer for the Phils. Jay now is 7-6.

In the nightcap, Reds slugger Frank Robinson, Gordie Coleman and Leo Cardenas hit homers in the sixth inning. Marty Kneough got the Reds' first homer in the third.

Littler's victory shot him into second spot among the pro money winners with $53,704.16, behind Arnold Palmer who has $60,331.

Indians Like Fenway Park, Sox Pitching

BOSTON (AP) — Hooray for Fenway Park and Boston pitching! At least that's the feeling of the Cleveland Indians after winning three out of four games from the Red Sox on a fantastic display of hitting.

The Tribe dropped the first game of Sunday's doubleheader, 4-3 in 11 innings, despite a 16-hit attack. But the Indians grabbed the nightcap 9-3 and banged out another 16 hits as Barry Latman (3-4) went the route with an eight-hitter.

Here's what the Indians have accomplished in the four games (there's one more today):

Forty-one runs on 67 hits — 8 doubles, 2 triples and 11 home runs.

Tito Francona has been the biggest run with 11 hits in 23 trips, including two doubles, one triple and three homers. He has driven in eight runs and boosted his low-par average 24 points to .276.

The opener was a study of frustration for Cleveland, which left 15 men on the bases. A home run by Woodie Held and a two-run shot by John Romano in the eighth inning accounted for the Tribe runs.

Bob Tullman slammed Frank Fun's (0-1) first pitch in the 11th for a long homer to left center that ended the ball game.

Al Luplow and Jerry Kindall were the hitting stars in the Cleveland triumph, which drew the Indians to within one game of first place New York.

2 Local Winners Participate In State Teenage Road-e-o

Two local winners traveled to Euclid yesterday to take part in the State Jaycees Teenage Road-e-o. The event was hosted by the Euclid Jaycees.

Making the trip were Joe Schneider, Circleville, and Janet Bausum, Ashville, Pickaway County's winning drivers. They were accompanied by Jack Alkire, president of the Circleville Junior Chamber, and Dwight Radcliff, chairman of the local Road-e-o which was conducted May 11.

Schneider and Miss Bausum were among a field of 117 top teenage drivers participating. There were 64 boys and 53 girls.

Schneider finished fifth with a score of 566, missing third place by only four points. Miss Bausum scored a commendable 431.

FIRST place in the boys division went to Michael Courtwright, former Waverly resident who now lives in Ashville. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Courtwright who recently moved to Pickaway County.

Young Courtwright earned a score of 579 out of a possible 604. His top effort was good for a $1,000 scholarship and a trophy.

Top honors in the girls division went to Diane Bagley of Van Wert. She led the field with a 563 score.

Second place in the boys class went to Don Archibald of East Palestine who was presented with a $500 scholarship and a trophy. Third place was earned by Mickey Steiner of Rittman. He received a $300 scholarship and a trophy.

M. Virginia Smith of East Palestine was second in the girls division and Frances Bookings of Youngstown. Miss Smith had a 549 and Bookings a 543.

FETCHING EVER SINCE— While serving a 5-year sentence for auto theft, Nathaniel Hatcher escaped from an Alabama prison road gang 10 years ago. Captured in Erie, Pa., he said, "We were working on the highway and the guard told me to fetch water. I've been fetching that water ever since." He says he was in an Alabama prison when the auto theft occurred.

MEMPHIS (AP) — A boy about 7 and his sister, perhaps a couple of years younger waited in the doctor's office. The boy was not in the least happy about it.

"But I don't WANNA booster shot," he wailed.

"Now, now," comforted his sister in her best little-mother voice, "that shot will be better than having booster."

Steel Market May Brighten Next Month

CLEVELAND (AP) — The dull steel market picture may brighten somewhat next month, an industry publication said today.

"Look for a modest upturn in steel buying next month when automakers start releasing orders for 1963 model runs," Steel Magazine said. "Until then, the car companies will place only fill-in orders and mills will continue booking tonnage at a rate equivalent to only 50 per cent of shipping capacity."

Steel said the automobile manufacturers have enough steel on hand to complete the 1962 models and get almost a month's start on the 1963 cars.

"On June 1 they had 60-day stockpiles totaling almost 2.1 million tons. That's nearly double the amount they carried at the same date in 1960, when car production equaled the 6.7 million units expected for 1962. Another two months' stocks are on order, waiting only for shipping releases."

The car makers are trying to get pilot lines for 1963 models started earlier than usual "so they can do a faster debugging job when production starts," Steel said, noting that the first 1963 Chevrolets were scheduled to roll off the pilot plant line in Flint, Mich., last week.

Steel said the downturn in steel shipments is continuing. Buyers continue to defer some shipments, and June shipments from steel mills will be down about 10 per cent from May, the publication predicted.

Adenauer Pep Is Amazing to His Followers

BONN, Germany (AP) — Konrad Adenauer put on a lively performance this week to answer people who keep asking:

Isn't an 86-year-old man too old to run the country? Isn't the chancellor losing his grip after nearly 13 years in office?

He showed plenty of vitality during the four taxing days his Christian Democrat party was in convention. He evidenced few if any signs of inability to concentrate while he made two one-hour speeches and held a news conference where some of the questions got tricky.

Men who were with him from 8 a.m. to midnight for four days say his stamina was unbelievable.

His keynote speech was delivered from notes without text. He received 21 ovations. Applause interrupted him 36 times, and there were 18 outbursts of laughter.

Some party members and veteran political reporters say Adenauer was re-elected to head the party because there was no one groomed to do a better job.

Why does Adenauer continue in the tough job of chancellor rather than quit now and tend his rose garden?

This is the most often-heard explanation: Adenauer wants to go down in history as a great European who triumphed over the Communists, as one of the fathers of a European political union. He feels he has not yet achieved that goal.

Thousands of Ohioans Get Diplomas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio colleges and universities opened their doors to thousands of graduates Sunday in the last big wave of commencement activities.

At each of the ceremonies, speakers gave their warnings and advice and school officials handed out the long-sought diplomas.

Most of the talks centered around the current world situation and scientific improvements which the 1962 crop of graduates may see.

At the University of Cincinnati, where the class of 1,744 was second in size only to Ohio State University, two graduation ceremonies were held, for the undergraduates in the afternoon and the graduate students in the evening.

Dr. Edward Teller, California nuclear scientist, told the afternoon ceremony that research will bring control of the weather, and he said weather control could be used to help feed the world's increasing populations or could become a weapon of warfare.

Sunday night, Dr. George Rieve-schl Jr., vice President of the Parke-Davis & Co., advised the graduates to adopt a broad view of the world around them.

"Thus doubly armed with the keen-edged tools of a specialist and the broader weapon of balanced judgment, you should be well prepared to provide a constructive answer to the question, 'Where are we going?'"

Perhaps the most fiery message was given to the 212 Central State College graduates. There, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, attacked what he called deportations by white citizen's councils in the South and predicted they cannot succeed.

"Deportations by white citizen's councils," he said, "have exposed to the nation the extent of deprivation and misery which the South has forced upon the Negro citizens."

"Having cheated and mistreated them all these years, some southern elements are now trying to dodge responsibility by shipping these victims of inequality to the North."

Two other state schools also joined the graduation parade Sunday. Miami at Oxford handed out 913 degrees and Ohio University bade goodbye to 898.

At Miami, Dr. Jose A. Mora of Uruguay, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, said that group has shown an uncertain world how independent nations can work to help each other. He also said the Alliance for Progress, formed a year ago at the urging of President Kennedy, has given Latin American peoples a major goal for self-help.

At Ohio University, Dr. Barnaby Conrad Keeney, president of Brown University, said the world faces a four-dimensional war.

"It is a war inside our country against ignorance, disease, poverty, subversion and reaction; it is a war outside the country against our mortal enemies; it is a war in the present, for there is a battle that must be won; it is a war for the future, for man must for once reap the fruits of victory."

Among the graduates were two who walked up together to receive their degrees — Mrs. Howard Stradley of Lancaster and her daughter, Thalia. Also receiving a degree was a 68-year-old Portsmouth woman, Mrs. Arthur B. Lynn, who has been working off and on since 1911 to earn her degree.

Two other commencement ceremonies were going on in the Cleveland area.

At Baldwin-Wallace, Dr. Abe

Silverstein, director of the Lewis Research Center, told 292 graduates that newly developing nations must be aided in education as well as in science and technology.

And at Fenn College, Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrese told 220 graduates they have the greatest opportunity history has ever afforded to do something bold and creative in shaping a new world.

GOP Sees Good Voter Bait In Stock Mart, Estes Case

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Republicans are counting heavily on uneasiness in the stock market and the Billie Sol Estes scandal to help them win control of the House in the November election.

Members of the Republican National Committee open formal sessions today with far more optimistic feelings about the election results than they had a month ago.

National Chairman William E. Miller put this feeling into words when he told a gathering of Young Republicans: "We have the issues on our side this time. We are going to win in November."

The issues, as spelled out by Miller and other committee members, revolve around what they called a lack of confidence by the business community in President Kennedy—as exemplified by the stock market's gyrations—a reputed effort by the President to enlarge executive power and a new GOP slogan that there are "too many Kennedys in government."

Fred Scribner of Maine, the committee's general counsel, said a national party survey indicates the people in general "are not nearly as happy as they were with the way the country is being run."

Individual committee members reported a lift in Republican spirits, most of which was due to what they said was adverse reaction to Kennedy's steel price roll back tactics. Several mentioned the revelations concerning Estes' manipulations in grain storage and cotton acreage allotments in Texas as being likely to damage Democrats.

A typical report came from South Dakota committeeman Carroll Lockhart, whose state was honored at a World's Fair ceremony Sunday.

"The anti-administration feeling in our state is so strong that I believe we are going to have a substantial victory there in November," Lockhart said.

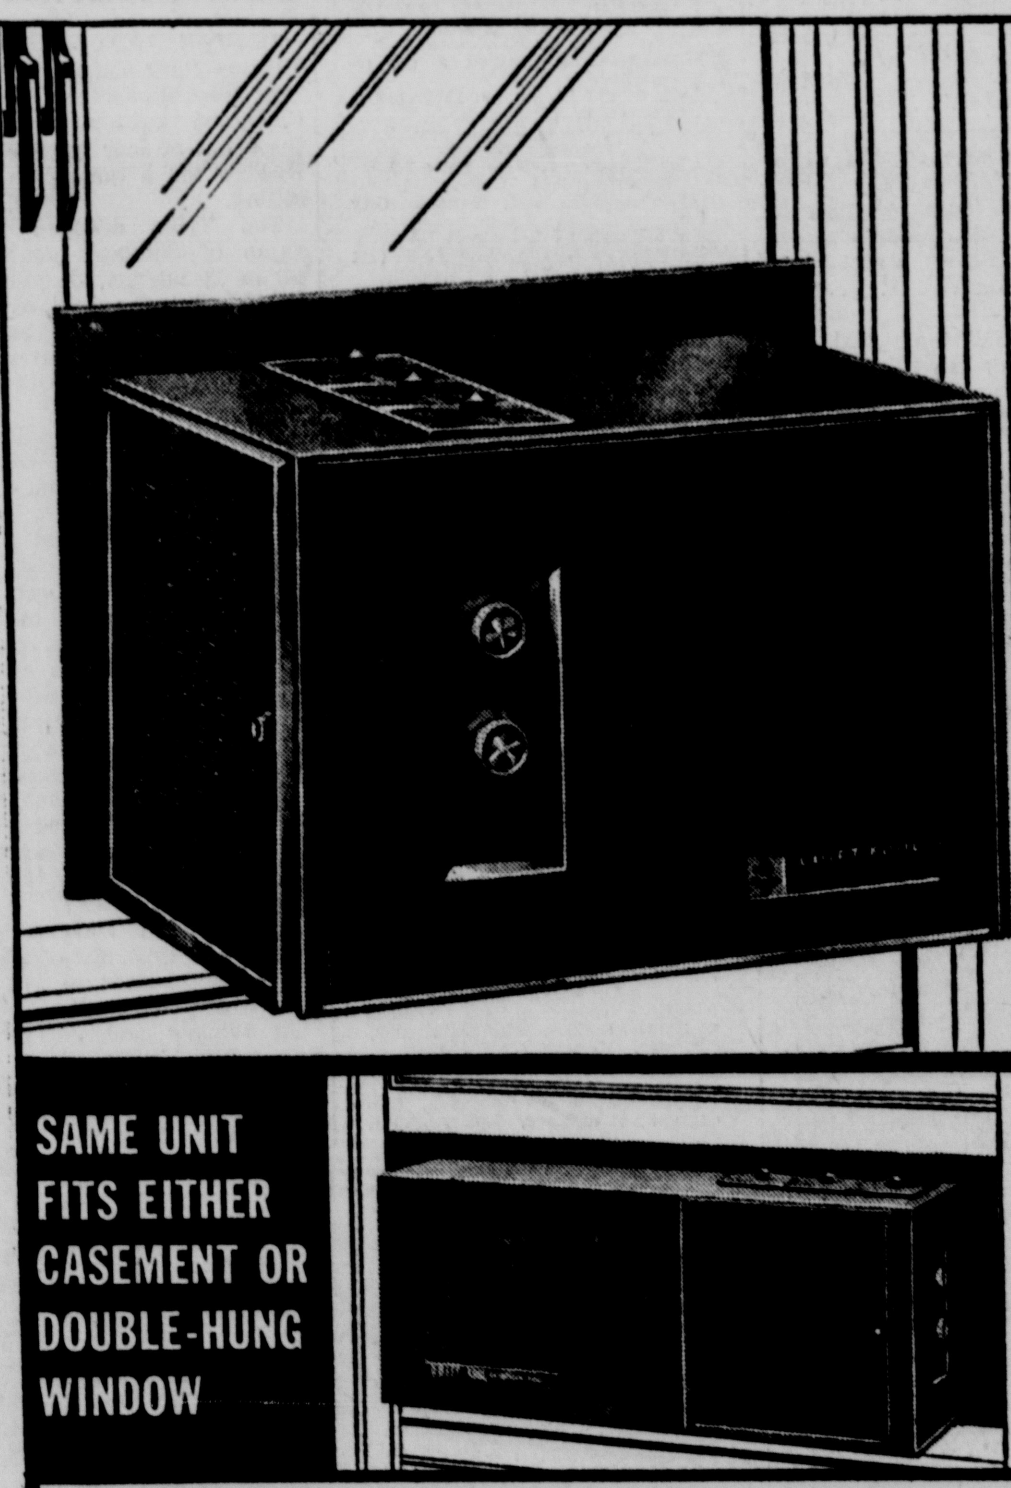

Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., is being opposed for re-election in the general election by George McGovern, who quit as head of the Food for Peace program to make the race.

Emphasizing GOP interest in the Estes case, Miller followed the line of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in noting that the Democrats have control of all of the legislative and executive investigating machinery. To top this off, he said, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, "has the keys to the jail."

"Unless we Republicans gain control of the House, there will never be a full investigation of the Estes case or of any other scandal in this administration," Miller said.

The GOP chairman joined other Republicans in attacks on Edward Kennedy, the President's youngest brother, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the Senate in Massachusetts.

2 Local Winners Participate In State Teenage Road-e-o

Two local winners traveled to Euclid yesterday to take part in the State Teenage Road-e-o. The event was hosted by the Euclid Jaycees.

Making the trip were Joe Schneider, Circleville, and Janet Bausum, Ashville, Pickaway County's winning drivers. They were accompanied by Jack Alkire, president of the Circleville Junior Chamber, and Dwight Radcliff, chairman of the local Road-e-o which was conducted May 11.

Schneider and Miss Bausum were among a field of 117 top teenage drivers participating. There were 64 boys and 53 girls. Schneider finished fifth with a score of 566, missing third place by only four points. Miss Bausum scored a commendable 431.

FIRST place in the boys division went to Michael Courtwright, former Waverly resident who now lives in Ashville. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Courtwright who recently moved to Pickaway County.

Young Courtwright earned a score of 579 out of a possible 604. His top effort was good for a $1,000 scholarship and a trophy.

Top honors in the girls division went to Diane Bagley of Van Wert. She led the field with a 563 score.

Second place in the boys class went to Don Archibald of East Palestine who was presented with a $500 scholarship and a trophy. Third place was earned by Mickey Steiner of Rittman. He received a $300 scholarship and a trophy.

M. Virginia Smith of East Palestine was second in the girls division and Frances Bookings of Youngstown. Miss Smith had a 549 and Bookings a 543.

Steel Market May Brighten Next Month

CLEVELAND (AP) — The dull steel market picture may brighten somewhat next month, an industry publication said today.

"Look for a modest upturn in steel buying next month when automakers start releasing orders for 1963 model runs," Steel Magazine said. "Until then, the car companies will place only fill-in orders and mills will continue booking tonnage at a rate equivalent to only 50 per cent of shipping capacity."

Steel said the automobile manufacturers have enough steel on hand to complete the 1962 models and get almost a month's start on the 1963 cars.

"On June 1 they had 60-day stockpiles totaling almost 2.1 million tons. That's nearly double the amount they carried at the same date in 1960, when car production equaled the 6.7 million units expected for 1962. Another two months' stocks are on order, waiting only for shipping releases."

The car makers are trying to get pilot lines for 1963 models started earlier than usual "so they can do a faster debugging job when production starts," Steel said, noting that the first 1963 Chevrolets were scheduled to roll off the pilot plant line in Flint, Mich., last week.

Steel said the downturn in steel shipments is continuing. Buyers continue to defer some shipments, and June shipments from steel mills will be down about 10 per cent from May, the publication predicted.

Adenauer Pep Is Amazing to His Followers

BONN, Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer put on a lively performance this week to answer people who keep asking:

Isn't an 86-year-old man too old to run the country? Isn't the chancellor losing his grip after nearly 13 years in office?

He showed plenty of vitality during the four taxing days his Christian Democrat party was in convention. He evidenced few if any signs of inability to concentrate while he made two one-hour speeches and held a news conference where some of the questions got tricky.

Men who were with him from 8 a.m. to midnight for four days say his stamina was unbelievable.

His keynote speech was delivered from notes without text. He received 21 ovations. Applause interrupted him 36 times, and there were 18 outbursts of laughter.

Some party members and veteran political reporters say Adenauer was re-elected to head the party because there was no one groomed to do a better job.

Why does Adenauer continue in the tough job of chancellor rather than quit now and tend his rose garden?

This is the most often-heard explanation: Adenauer wants to go down in history as a great European who triumphed over the Communists, as one of the fathers of a European political union. He feels he has not yet achieved that goal.

FETCHING EVER SINCE—While serving a 5-year sentence for auto theft, Nathaniel Hatcher escaped from an Alabama prison road gang 10 years ago. Captured in Erie, Pa., he said, "We were working on the highway and the guard told me to fetch water. I've been fetching that water ever since." He says he was in an Alabama prison when the auto theft occurred.

Take It from Sis

MEMPHIS (AP) — A boy about 7 and his sister, perhaps a couple of years younger waited in the doctor's office. The boy was not in the least happy about it.

"But I don't WANNA booster shot," he wailed.

"Now, now," comforted his sister in her best little-mother voice, "that shot will be better than having booster."

Thousands of Ohioans Get Diplomas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio colleges and universities opened their doors to thousands of graduates Sunday in the last big wave of commencement activities.

At each of the ceremonies, speakers gave their warnings and advice and school officials handed out the long-sought diplomas.

Most of the talks centered around the current world situation and scientific improvements which the 1962 crop of graduates may see.

At the University of Cincinnati, where the class of 1,744 was second in size only to Ohio State University, two graduation ceremonies were held, for the undergraduates in the afternoon and the graduate students in the evening.

Dr. Edward Teller, California nuclear scientist, told the afternoon ceremony that research will bring control of the weather, and he said weather control could be used to help feed the world's increasing populations or could become a weapon of warfare.

Sunday night, Dr. George Rieveschl Jr., vice President of the Parke-Davis & Co., advised the graduates to adopt a broad view of the world around them.

"Thus doubly armed with the keen-edged tools of a specialist and the broader weapon of balanced judgment, you should be well prepared to provide a constructive answer to the question, 'Where are we going?'"

Perhaps the most fiery message was given to the 212 Central State College graduates. There, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, attacked what he called deportations by white citizen's councils in the South and predicted they cannot succeed.

"Deportations by white citizen's councils," he said, "have exposed to the nation the extent of deprivation and misery which the South has forced upon the Negro citizens."

"Having cheated and mistreated them all these years, some southern elements are now trying to dodge responsibility by shipping these victims of inequality to the North."

Two other state schools also joined the graduation parade Sunday. Miami at Oxford handed out 913 degrees and Ohio University bade goodbye to 898.

At Miami, Dr. Jose A. Mora of Uruguay, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, said that group has shown an uncertain world how independent nations can work to help each other. He also said the Alliance for Progress, formed a year ago at the urging of President Kennedy, has given Latin American peoples a major goal for self-help.

At Ohio University, Dr. Barnaby Conrad Keeney, president of Brown University, said the world faces a four-dimensional war.

"It is a war inside our country against ignorance, disease, poverty, subversion and reaction; it is a war outside the country against our mortal enemies; it is a war in the present, for there is a battle that must be won; it is a war for the future, for man must for once reap the fruits of victory."

Among the graduates were two who walked up together to receive their degrees — Mrs. Howard Stradley of Lancaster and her daughter, Thalia. Also receiving a degree was a 68-year-old Portsmouth woman, Mrs. Arthur B. Lynn, who has been working off and on since 1911 to earn her degree.

Two other commencement ceremonies were going on in the Cleveland area.

At Baldwin-Wallace, Dr. Abe

Silverstein, director of the Lewis Research Center, told 292 graduates that newly developing nations must be aided in education as well as in science and technology.

And at Fenn College, Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrese told 220 graduates they have the greatest opportunity history has ever afforded to do something bold and creative in shaping a new world.

GOP Sees Good Voter Bait In Stock Mart, Estes Case

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Republicans are counting heavily on uneasiness in the stock market and the Billie Sol Estes scandal to help them win control of the House in the November election.

Members of the Republican National Committee open formal sessions today with far more optimistic feelings about the election results than they had a month ago.

National Chairman William E. Miller put this feeling into words when he told a gathering of Young Republicans: "We have the issues on our side this time. We are going to win in November."

The issues, as spelled out by Miller and other committee members, revolve around what they called a lack of confidence by the business community in President Kennedy—as exemplified by the stock market's gyrations—a reputed effort by the President to enlarge executive power and a new GOP slogan that there are "too many Kennedys in government."

Fred Scribner of Maine, the committee's general counsel, said a national party survey indicates the people in general "are not nearly as happy as they were with the way the country is being run."

Individual committee members reported a lift in Republican spirits, most of which was due to what they said was adverse reaction to Kennedy's steel price roll back tactics. Several mentioned the revelations concerning Estes' manipulations in grain storage and cotton acreage allotments in Texas as being likely to damage Democrats.

A typical report came from South Dakota committeeman Carroll Lockhart, whose state was honored at a World's Fair ceremony Sunday.

"The anti-administration feeling in our state is so strong that I believe we are going to have a substantial victory there in November," Lockhart said.

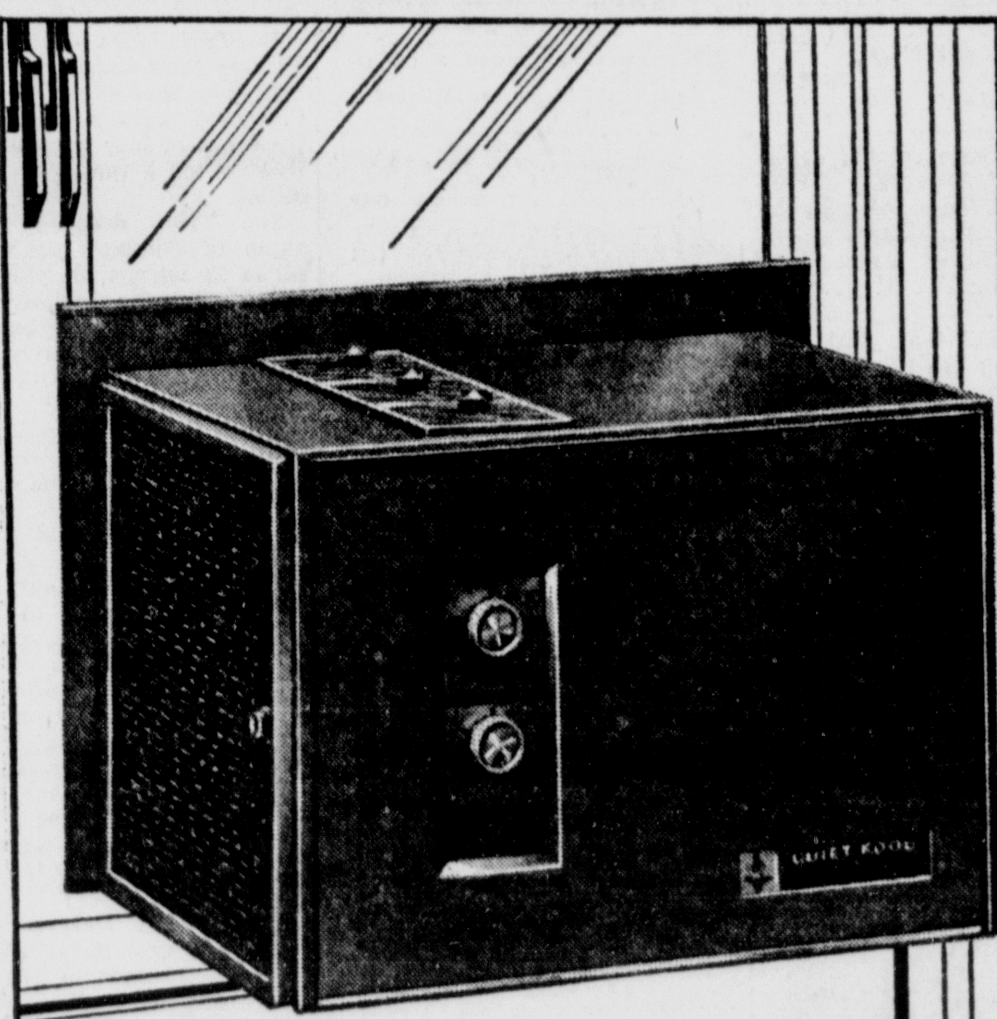

Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., is being opposed for re-election in the general election by George McGovern, who quit as head of the Food for Peace program to make the race.

Emphasizing GOP interest in the Estes case, Miller followed the line of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in noting that the Democrats have control of all of the legislative and executive investigating machinery. To top this off, he said, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, "has the keys to the jail."

"Unless we Republicans gain control of the House, there will never be a full investigation of the Estes case or of any other scandal in this administration," Miller said.

The GOP chairman joined other Republicans in attacks on Edward Kennedy, the President's youngest brother, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the Senate in Massachusetts.
